Hit-Run Victims

Suffering from fractures of the skull, arms and legs, and concussion of the brain, Robert DiFazio, 10, and William Lynds, 9, today were reported doing as well as could be expected in City Hospital . . . after they were struck in Dorchester while coasting in a tin wagon. Driver drove on, but Hugh McLaughlin, 42, surrendered later . . . and was held on four charges.

Yanks Closing in on Nantes, St. Nazaire

By GLADWIN HILL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 4 (AP)—U. S. armor and infantry, spreading in a widening and lengthening tide over Brittany, reached within 43 miles of the two big ports of Nantes and St. Nazaire on the Loire today and cut off most of the peninsula.

While bursting through country 20 miles south of Rennes, the American forces also spread 27 miles west of that rail and highway hub in the center of Brittany coming within 108 miles east of Brest.

Yet other forces advanced in rapid strides to within two miles of Evran, seven miles south of captured Dinan in north Brittany, and jumped off to attack the German-held north coast city of St. Malo which had been bypassed in the strike to Dinan.

Fighting raged in Rennes along streets leading to the heart of the town, where an encircled but fanatic enemy garrison was holding out.

125 MILES INTO FRANCE

The Americans struck due south close to Baine-de-Bretagne, 17 miles south of Rennes and 43 miles from Nantes, a port city of 195,000 population up the Loire river.

With their punch to a point 20 miles south of Rennes, the Americans had penetrated France to a depth of more than 125 miles from Cherbourg.

From St. Lo, their jumping off point in the 11-day offensive, they had advanced more than 90 miles.

It was estimated total Nazi casualties since the invasion totaled 200,000 men—half the enemy's initial force.

They were within five miles of Pipriac, 20 miles southwest of Rennes and 43 miles from St. Nazaire, the U-boat base and U. S. troop port in the first World War.

Although there still was fighting at Rennes, field dispatches said the position of the German garrison there was hopeless.

SWEEP UP OTHER TOWNS

(Secy. Stimson, in Washington, yesterday announced the capture of Rennes and subsequent dispatches from correspondents at the front also told of the seizure of the city.)

In the westward push past Rennes, the Americans were reported approaching Mauron, 27 miles directly west, and within two miles of St. Meen le Bretagne, nine miles to the northeast.

Broons, nine miles northwest of St. Meen and 14 miles southwest of Dinan, also was reached in the westward drive.

St. Meen le Bretagne is on the main road running down the center of the peninsula from Rennes to Brest. Both St. Meen and Mauron are 108 miles from the big French navil base at the tip of Brittany.

Berlin, in its high command communique said American trooos were "engaging, German base garrisons" after a break-through into Brittany, and reports from the front continued to stress that only this type of enemy troops was being met—troops which could not be expected to put up as strong resistance as front line outfits.

FRANCE—American armored column, by-passing Rennes, has pushed southward toward St. Nazaire and has reached the area of Pipriac, as other Yank forces thundered toward Brest. Allies control black area.

Japs Say P-38s Raid Manchuria

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Japanese broadcasts said today P-38 planes had attacked southern Manchuria and that this "proved a raid by fighter planes from continental bases is possible."

B-29 Superfortresses went to Manchuria last week.

New Bulgarian Peace Bid Told

LONDON, Aug. 4 (INS)—The London News Chronicle carried an Ankara dispatch today reporting the Germans have withdrawn 50 miles from the Bulgarian Black Sea coast.

The dispatch said that according to the Ankara radio Bulgaria was negotiating with the Russians, British and Americans through neutral countries.

Maginot Stand Likely

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—A general German withdrawal from France before the end of the present fighting season is expected by some military authorities here.

The political impact in Germany of so vast a retreat within the next two months or so, coupled with the enormous backward marches on the eastern front, may be enough to force the enemy's final surrender or the collapse of his will to resist.

But the possibility is not entirely discounted that the Germans may try one last stand in the west. If they can get back into their inner fortress protected by the old Maginot and Siegfried lines.

The enemy must still hope, since it is the only hope remaining to him, to reestablish a war of position at some point. But his troops have been thrown so far off balance in France they almost certainly will not be able to stop short of the French frontier.

Holding such ports as Brest, St. Nazaire and Cherbourg, the Allied armies in France may be supplied not only from Britain, but also directly from the United States.

Now that the Allies have broken out of the Normandy beachhead trap, Gen. Eisenhower's dominant consideration is to keep punching the Germans so hard and fast they cannot stop and dig in. A huge and intricate system of replacements has been developed to keep divisions at full strength and always rolling forward.

Against constantly refreshed American and Allied divisions the Germans will be able to pit only their combat-weary tramps and, occasionally, force a major battle by throwing in fresh strategic reserves.

Possibility of Allied sea-borne flanking attacks remains great.

Reds Near Silesia

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Aug. 4 (AP)—Russian hosts which smashed the German Vistula River line advanced swiftly today to within 91 miles of German Silesia while other army groups in the north shelled towns and villages inside East Prussia from positions three miles from the frontier.

Another triumph in the Carpathians carried the Red Army within five miles of Czechoslovakia after they had chased the Germans from Jabonkow, a short distance from the crest of Uzok pass, through which Russia invaded Hungary in the first World War.

Russian forces moved within 58 miles of Krakow, fifth city of old Poland, over difficult hill country. In this area of the Vistula, 110 miles below beleaguered Warsaw, the Russians were within 30 miles of Tarnow and 28 of Kielce, last large Nazi bastion before Krakow.

ROLL UP NAZI RESERVES

Official sources were silent on the siege of Warsaw, where Marshal Rokossovsky's army was pulled up just east of the Polish capital.

In the Baltic states, Russian tanks were patrolling the shores of the Gulf of Riga 25 miles west of Riga and Pravda said they were striking both east toward that capital of 393,000 and west toward Liepaja, Latvia's second city, a west coast seaport.

All along the 1000-mile front from the Baltic to the Carpathians, the Germans were reported rolling up reserves, particularly in the Warsaw and Vistula breach area. Concentrations of the German air force appeared.

GERMAN LINES STIFFEN

The belief in Moscow quarters was that the Vistula break through might start a serious German rout.

Russian planes as well as cannon strongly attacked East Prussian towns and lines of communication, despite poor flying weather. Russian vanguards were within 93 miles of the provincial capital of Konigsberg and 44 miles from Insterburg, where five railroads lead from iron foundries and machine shops.

Stilwell Seizes Jap Burma Key

By Associated Press

Myitkyina has fallen, conquered by Allied troops who in 10 weeks overcame monsoon, jungle and 3000 Japanese defending this North Burma base vital to reopening the Ledo Road back to China.

Southeast Asia Headquarters announced Gen. Stilwell's triumph today, saying that remnants of the 18th Japanese Division were wiped out with bazookas, flame throwers, heavy artillery and mortars in the final hours of the long siege.

Stilwell had by this victory cleared more than 200 miles for his now-building Ledo road out of India, which he plans to link up with the Burma highway into supply-hungry China.

AIRFIELDS TAKEN

Two airfields and important road and rail terminals came into Stilwell's control with Myitkyina's fall. The airfields could serve as way stations on the air route from India to China.

Chinese fighting toward Myitkyina from China's Yunnan Province were within 20 miles of Stilwell's forces.

American troops squeezed 7000 Japanese into the northern sector of Guam, giving them the choice of death or surrender.

A forested eight miles of Guam stood between the Americans and the sea toward which they were pushing the Japanese.

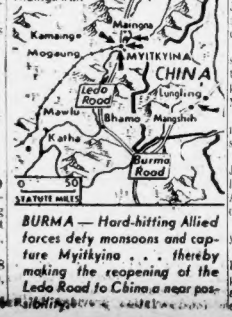
NEW GUINEA JAPS FAIL

On conquered Timan to the north 4000 civilians gave themselves up to internment.

On New Guinea the trapped Japanese suffered heavy losses in four more attempts to breach the Allied ring in which they are caught.

In China the battle for Hengyang continued at a bloody pitch.

A heavy attack upon the Bonin Islands off the coast of Japan, presumably carried out by U. S. air and naval forces, was reported by the Tokyo radio.



BURMA — Hard-hitting Allied forces defy monsoons and capture Myitkyina . . . thereby making the reopening of the Ledo Road to China a near possibility.

Florence Fall To Allies Near

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, Aug. 4 (AP)—Allied entry into Florence appeared imminent today, with the Germans falling back before New Zealand and South African troops.

German guns flashed from peaks behind the beautiful Tuscan city.

Some of the Allied troops were less than three miles from the city.

The New Zealanders drove the Germans from high ground southwest of Florence in the advance to the River Greve.

RUSSIA—Red troops cross the Vistula river in face of German fire and come within 58 miles of Krakow as siege of Warsaw continues.

Philly Strikers Defy U. S. Rule

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4 (AP)—Bands of strikers threatened violence today to operators attempting to restore service on Philadelphia's paralyzed transportation system and the Army, which seized the lines last night, announced that persons with apparent enemy sympathies had prevented resumption of service.

"Protection will be provided on the trolleys, buses, subways and elevated lines," Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding general of the Third Service Command, said after only a few subway and elevated trains and the trolleys on one route had made runs.

Hayes took control on orders of President Roosevelt last night after the stoppage had stranded hundreds of thousands, curtailed vital war production and given rise to race violence.

General Hayes said, "Delay in restoring full operation is measured in the blood of American soldiers overseas."

Only 13 elevated trains, nine subway trains and the trolleys on one route had operated up to 10 a. m., five hours after the Army's deadline.

Gen. Hayes

Five truckloads of strikers stopped a Philadelphia Transportation Co. emergency repair wagon in a residntial street and wardner the crew to answer no calls.

"Don't if you know what's good for you," they said.

After seven trains had pulled out of the 69th St. Elevated terminal, a band of strikers appeared on the platform and attempted to dissuade other crews from making their runs. Only one crew walked out again.

"What can you expect of these old guys?" a striker shouted. "They were scabs in the 1910 strike."

Eleven windows were smashed during the night in a flareup of race disorder which already had sent 14 persons to hospitals.

At 8:30 a. m., heavy details of police were dispatched to the Huntington Park station of the Broad st. subway on a report of a "bad disturbance" there.

Policemen reported the station was "all quiet" when they arrived, but said they were told that strikers had been attempting to dissuade residents from boarding the occasional trains.

Meanwhile hundreds of thousands of Philadelphians again hitch-hiked, walked or used makeshift transportation provided by employers, to get to their jobs.

A mass meeting of many of the Philadelphia Transportation Company's 6000 employes voted last night to continue the walkout on the ground that the racial issue which prompted the work stoppage three days ago had not been settled by government seizure.

The men walked out originally in protest to the upgrading of eight Negroes to jobs as motormen.

Accuse Matron In Boy Slaying

SALINAS, Cal., Aug. 4 (AP)—An attractive 38-year-old matron of elite Carmel Valley society awaited arraignment today on a charge of murdering a 19-year-old farm boy, shot a few hours after he dined at the ranch home of another socialite.

Mrs. Frances Andrews, wife of an Army corporal, was indicted by a Monterey County grand jury which heard a number of socially prominent Carmel residents and ranch hands tell of events preceding the death of Jay Lovett.

Pretty Mrs. Nancy Linde, wife of a San Francisco physician, testified the youth had dinner at her ranch last July 15, the night his body was found near Mrs. Andrews' home. She said young Lovett was summoned by Mrs. Andrews "to look at a sick calf."

Dist. Atty. Anthony Brazil said the motive for the shooting "obviously was jealousy."

After the indictment was returned, Cpl. Frank Andrews issued a statement contending his wife's innocence.

"Of course she wrote letters to Jay and signed them 'Love, Frances'," his statement said. "That was perfectly natural. We treated that boy like a son."

Jimmy At Home But Don't Bet on It

Life was dull and uneventful at the Back Bay police station today—Jimmy Cotarakos, 5, of Bay State rd., hadn't run away.

But overworked policemen were not too optimistic, for Jimmy returned only a few hours ago from his latest runaway trip to Revere Beach—his 17th sight-seeing excursion in a few weeks—and it was expected he would need a few hours to rest up.

Gone since 4 a. m. Thursday on his latest jaunt, Jimmy was getting in a few quick winks in the Milk st. subway station early today when Patrolman Philip Brady of the Milk st. station spotted him.

Patrolman Brady reads the newspapers and looks at the pictures too, so he knew at once who Jimmy was.

But before going home to his worried parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cotarakos, Jimmy told police and photographers just how he gets so far and sees so much without any money. He knows he is young enough to ride the Boston Elevated free and he's found there is always some nice old lady who just can't stand to see a child look wistfully at broiling hot dogs or popcorn.

The runaway kid has visited most every part of Boston and most of the suburbs in previous trips, but his latest sprees seem to center on the magic wonders of Revere Beach.

Outside of a day and night guard, Jimmy's parents are about ready to give up in their efforts to keep him at home.

Montreal Folk Walk, Too

By the Associated Press

Throughout the nation some 25,000 were idle in labor disputes (not counting the Philadelphia tieup) today and 4000 more were out in Montreal.

Residents of Montreal went about their affairs by automobile, truck, bicycle and afoot in the second day of a complete halt of the tram and bus service.

Seven thousand employes of five General Motors' Chevrolet gear and axle division plants in Detroit voted lasts night to continue their week-old strike.

Also in Detroit 850 were idle at the Gear Grinding Machine Co., and 400 at the Bulldog Electric Products Co.

Six thousand strikers at John A. Roebling's Sons and Co., Roebling and Trenton, N. J., were ordered back to work by the WLB but a return had not yet started.

A walkout of 600 truck drivers, helpers and warehousemen virtually halted truck transportation out of Richmond, Va., in a wage dispute. Another new stoppage saw 700 out at the Chicago Screw Co.

A dozen other continuing disputes kept nearly 10,000 more away from work.

London Steps Up Evacuation Plan

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The British government's program to clear London of women and children was stepped up today following the 14-hour record flying bomb blasting yesterday. All mothers with children of school age now may register for evacuation.

Heretofore all children were eligible for government aid in leaving, but only expectant mothers or those with children under five years of age came under the program.

The Nazis' robot blows on London and southern England fell off during the night after Allied bombers hammered the launching sites with 3000 tons of bombs.

Fallon, Kavanagh Sent To Study Phila. Strike

Police Supt. Edward W. Fallon and Deputy Supt. Thomas S. J. Kavanagh were sent to Philadelphia today under orders from Commr. Thomas F. Sullivan to observe methods used by police there in coping with outbreaks resulting from the transport strike.

The two officers expect to spend three or four days studying the Philadelphia police organization to meet problems arising from the strike.

Philly Strike General Ex-Brookline Resident

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding general of the Third Service Command and the man assigned by the War Department to break the Philadelphia transportation tieup, is a former Brookline resident.

He was chief of staff of the First Service Command here, as a full colonel, until a year ago, when he was ordered to Washington, made a brigadier, then major general.

Prior to serving as chief of staff here he was commander of the R. O. T. C. at Harvard.

Maj. Gen. Hayes' mother, Mrs. John Hayes, lives in Babcock st., Brookline. He is a native of Portage, Wis., a West Pointer and World War I veteran.

Transportation Cut By Reading, Pa., Strike

READING, Pa., Aug. 4 (AP)—A work stoppage of Reading Street Railway Co. workers in protest over union suspension of 13 members of the Amalgamated Association of Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes (AFL) cut the city's transportation facilities to 75 per cent today.

The figure was expected to drop still lower when night shifts, which operated during the morning rush hours, complete their runs.

CIO-Soviet Link Found In All-Slav Data Here

By RAY RICHARDS
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Direct connection between Moscow and the CIO political action committee was established by documents in Washington today.

A comparison of membership lists and other reports on file in various agencies revealed that 10 of the 80 members of the Political Action Committee are the leaders of organizations in the All-American Slav Congress, which was launched at Moscow Aug. 10 and 11, 1941, by an All-Slav Congress assembled with the approval of the Soviet government.

The discovery was made as Rep. Martin Dies, Texas Democrat, chairman of the House Committee on un-American Activities, appointed a sub-committee of three to conduct investigations and hearings on the committee's charges that the CIO-PAC is the "political arm of the New Deal," and that government employes are connected with the CIO-PAC in violation of the Hatch Act.

The sub-committee consists of Representatives John M. Costello, California Democrat; Joseph Starnes, Alabama Democrat, and Fred E. Busbey, Illinois Republican.

DEFEATED BY CIO

The spice of the sub-committee's makeup is in the fact that CIO-PAC activity is held largely responsible for the defeat of Costello and Starnes in the spring primaries.

The records inspected today show that the All-Slav Congress at Moscow, attende mostly by Communist representatives of European countries seeking the post-war "protection" of Russia, included American delegates who returned to the United States to start a branch organization in this country at the direct behest of the Russian leaders.

News dispatches of the period show that the Moscow meeting was greeted officially by an editorial in the Red army's official organ, Red Star, and that the chairman of the gathering was Alexander Gundorow, a lieutenant general in the Red army. Vice-chairman was Alexander Korneichuk, a noted Soviet writer.

A motion was carried that branches of the All-Slav Congress be formed not only in the United States, but in Canada, New Zealand and Latin-America.

ORGANIZED IN DETROIT

The All-American Slav Congress, as a direct result, was organized at a Detroit meeting on April 25 and 26, 1942, after preliminary meetings in various states and regions. Many of the speakers at these meetings are named as Communists in congressional investigating committee files.

Leaders in the All-American Slav Congress who are now members of the CIO-PAC are:

Leo Krzycki, president of the congress.

Louis Adamic, author, denounced as a Communist by Rep. Busbey in a speech to the House of Representatives last March 13.

Zlatko Balovic, president of the United Committee of South Slavic Americans, and a contributor to Communist publications.

Zarko M. Bunzick, vice president of the South Slavic Americans.

John D. Butkovich, president of the Croatian Fraternal Union.

Stephan Zeman, Jr., secretary of the All-American Slav Congress.

Prof. Jaroslav J. Zmrhal, president of the Czechoslovak National Council, Illinois.

V. X. Platek, president of the National Slovak Society, Pennsylvania.

Dr. W. T. Osowski, president of the Machigan American Slav Congress.

Oscar Lange, speaker before the pro-Soviet Polish-American Kosciusko legion meeting at Detroit, Nov. 5, 1943, and who recently was reported by news dispatches as having had an extended interview with Premier Stalin at Moscow.

T-Sgt. Lewis L. Coburn, 26, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., who has won 18 decorations in a record-breaking 107 missions in the Pacific and European air theaters, began a 21-day furlough here today with two matters uppermost in his mind.

The first is a trip to see Lt. Winifred Galvin of New Hampshire, a nurse now at Cushing General Hospital, Framingham, who was grand to him when he was hospitalized in Australia.

The second is a date with a lot of thick steaks and cold milk and a couple of weeks lolling around in the sun of his home town in upper New York.

Other arrivals at the Overseas Reception Center here included, T-Sgt. Saul M. Kupperman, 116 Brunswick st., Roxbury; S-Sgt. Philip B. Addy, of Stow; S-Sgt. John J. Keating, 1004 Washington st., Lynn; and T-Sgt. Albert Picarello, 15 Lexington st., West Newton.

Private Sleuth Held in Plot

NEW YORK (AP)—A 73-year-old private investigator was held in $1500 bail charged with conspiring falsely to accuse of rape Arthur Derounian, author of the book "Under Cover" under the pen name John Roy Carlson.

The white-haired defendant, Edwin P. Banta, pleaded innocent to the charge in special sessions court.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Poretz charged that the purpose of the alleged conspiracy was to discredit Derounian as a prospective witness in the sedition trial of 25 defendants in Washington and "blow the sedition trials sky high."

An information filed by the grand jury charged that Banta conspired to persuade June Kelly, an attractive blonde, to accuse Derounian of raping her last June 16.

The district attorney's office said that Banta and Miss Kelly had reported the alleged rape to police several weeks ago, but that later Miss Kelly asked that the charge be dropped because it was untrue.

26 GOP Governors See Dewey Victory

By JACK BELL

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4 (AP)—The nationa's Republican governors, spoiling for a fight, challenged the New Deal's approach to domestic problems today, offered their own alternative answers and trumpeted predictions of a victory for the Dewey-Bricker slate in November.

Obviously pleased by his success in drawing the governors actively into the national campaign, presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey arranged for the release (at 9 a. m.) of concluding policy statements and plunged into a series of meetings with labor, business, farm and other leaders of Missouri.

Fresh and unruffled despite long hours spent at conference tables producing gubernatorially-endorsed statements on 14 points where he has said there is "friction" between local and federal governments, Dewey left to National Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., the job of assaying the political value of a three-hour group talk yesterday on campaign plans.

NEW UNITY WELDED

The smiling Brownell told reporters a new kind of Republican unity had been welded during the two-day meeting. He added that it was the unanimous view of the 26 governors and himself "that if we carry out our plan of campaign and our program for a united party, the Dewey-Bricker ticket will win in November."

GOP governor after governor echoed this prediction with variations ranging from Dwight Green's confident forecast that the Republicans would carry Illinois by a quarter of a million votes, to Simeon S. Willis' contention that the party would win in doubtful Kentucky with the aid of anti-New Deal Democrats.

Brownell consistently declined to predict that every state which now has a GOP governor would go against President Roosevelt in November and Gov. Earl Warren of California made it clear that the party knows it has a battle on its hands. Warren said California was in the "nip and tuck" class, but added "we're organizing for a great fight."

While the national chairman would not talk about detailed campaign plans, some of the governors said there was little doubt Dewey and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice-presidential nominee, would inaugurate speaking drives early in September.

Foil GI Swindle

HOLYOKE, Aug. 4—A new attempt to swindle a serviceman's family via long distance phone sent FBI and Army authorities today on a hunt for a man in a sailor's uniform and a woman accomplice who already have obtained $40 from parents of two soldiers here.

In the latest effort Mrs. Frank McCain of Lamb st., received a telephone call from New York. A woman's voice said she was a nurse attending Clarence McCain in the Ft. Dix Hospital and that he needed money.

Mrs. McCain's son received a medical discharge three months ago and is now working in a civilian job in New York. Recalling that two other families were recently swindled, Mrs. McCain notified police.

That novel business scheme was revealed today by Boston police when they questioned a 24-year-old South End man in connection with recent robberies.

Medford Mayor Halts Servicemen's Eviction

Eviction of Coastguardman Henrich Kmiec, his wife, Lorraine, and their baby from their Brooks st., Medford, apartment, was stayed today by Mayor Walter E. Lawrence, who ordered the action held off until Monday.

Their landlord, Max A. Hackebeil, had acted within his rights in obtaining an eviction order, according to OPA rent area officials. Hackebeil, who lives with his aged wife in the second-floor apartment of the two-story dwelling, wants the Emiecs' first floor flat for his own occupancy.

The landlord had explained in court that his wife, 74 years old, was recovering from a hip fracture and could no longer climb stairs to the second floor.

Notice Mayor Lawrence had delayed the eviction was brought to the coastguardman and his family by Constable Albert Tainter.

Tainter also advised the serviceman the mayor's office was trying to find other suitable quarters for the family in Medford.

Meanwhile, offer to rent them a two-room apartment, furnished, came from Earl Haskins, Somerset ave., Winthrop. Kmiec said he appreciated the interest of Haskins, a World War II veteran, but was advising him the offer could not be accepted because a larger apartment was needed.

The coastguardman, bitter at the landlord's action in obtaining an eviction notice, declared he would not remain in the apartment under any considerations.

However, Hackebeil was entirely within his legal rights, it was asserted by James J. Brennan, chief rent attorney for OPA here.

When the eviction order was sought before Judge Emma Fall Schofield in Malden district court, Brennan said, Rent Atty. Thomas Flaherty represented OPA.

Firebug Spot Tour For Hub Radio Man

A nattily dressed Brookline man who held a responsible position in a Boston radio station in the daytime and, according to police, roamed the city as a pyromaniac by night, was taken on a tour of incendiary fire sites today.

Police said the suspect, a 33-year-old radio script writer, had confessed setting three fires, although they accuse him of a five-year career as a firebug.

He admitted acts of arson in the Lobster Claw Cafe, Huntington ave., Back Bay; in the adjoining Hotel Putnam, where he took a room for one evening, and in the Hotel Beaconsfield, Brookline, where WACs are housed, authorities stated.

In the police lineup today the alleged terrorist was outwardly calm as he admitted living in Commonwealth ave., Brighton, during a period in which four fires broke out at his address.

He denied he had set them, however.

Later he was turned over to Inspectors Henry Donovan and Dennis Haggerty of the arson squad. They took him on a tour of the places where incendiary fires have imperiled scores of lives recently.

In the meantime, FBI agents were probing his background. Police who searched his Brookline home reported they found naval uniforms in a closet there.

The suspect said he was born in Derby, England, was brought here when he was 2 years old but did not become naturalized until a year ago.

Gas Ban Climax Of Florida Trip

The round trip that Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Metchear of High st., Stoneham, took this winter between their homes here and at Coral Gables, Fla., has proven a costly one. Their gas rations have been suspended until July 1, 1945.

Stoneham ration board revoked the "A" book of Mrs. Metchear and decreed that her husband can get no gasoline during that period.

Officials announced the Metchears had been granted a 110-gallon allotment on Jan. 15 on their plea that their permament home was in Coral Gables and that they wisned to travel there.

Stoneham officials took action when they returned, despite Metchear's argument that they had gone to Florida on the 110 gallons, their "A" coupons and 30 gallons Metchear had drained from a personal storage of gas he had in Stoneham since before rationing. Rationing officials found he had no right to use the old supply without turning in coupons just the same.

Stalin Confers With Pole Chief

MOSCOW, Aug. 4 (AP)—Marshal Stalin conferred for 2½ hours last night with Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, leader of the Polish government in exile, who came from London to discuss the Polish-Russian question.

The Soviet press expressed the view Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander-in-chief of the exiled Polish government forces, and his intimates were unacceptable to the Russians and that the Polish Committee of National Liberation, formed in Russia, was the proper government for the unification of Poland politically.

Hub Cowboy Cop Seeks Divorce

Lewis F. "Rebel" Jones, once Boston's smiling Cowboy Cop, today is back in his beloved west—but it's divorce instead of ranching that's on his mind.

The ex-patrolman, whose career ended eight years ago when a taxi crashed his traffic box in front of police headquarters, has filed suit for divorce from Christina A. (Sweet) Jones of Brockton, according to dispatches from Reno, Nev.

The couple's marital differences were first aired in Brockton probate court in 1941, when Judge Harry K. Stone found that Mrs. Jones was living apart from her husband for justifiable cause and ordered payments for the family's support boosted from $15 a week to $90 a month.

At that time Mrs. Jones testified that her husband left home to return to his native Oklahoma after investing $33,000 insurance money received as result of his injuries in an automobile accident and the purchase of real estate which he subsequently lost by foreclosure. The couple were married in Weymouth, Nov. 2, 1921, and have six children.

On-the-Spot Operations Saving U. S. Wounded

William Randolph Hearst, Junior, in a series of three articles, of which this is the second, describes the role which blood plasma is playing in saving American lives on the Normandy battlefront.

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, JUNIOR

LONDON, Aug. 4—Every casualty case falls into one of two categories—those who are too ill to be transported and need immediate surgery to save their lives, and those who, no matter how seriously wounded, are in the doctors' opinion transportable.

These later are sent back to a larger evacuation hospital.

If their wounds are such that they will in the chief medical officer's opinion take longer than 10 days to become fit, the patients are evacuated by plane to base hospitals in England.

If, on the other hand, the doctors think they can have them up and about again in 10 days time they remain there.

The two main objectives are first, to cure the man sufficiently to return him to combat and secondly, to evacuate him from the field hospital so that he can get rest and treatment at the same time, thus making room for additional casualties.

Our first stop was the combination clearing station and field hospital.

MODERN EQUIPMENT

The two operating tents here are as modernly equipped as any operating rooms in the world, I should think.

One little tent has a fluoroscope and another has several modern X-raying machines.

The speed and skill are beyond words. Patients are sometimes on the operating table one and a half to two hours after they have been picked up on the field. Both operating tables are in use 24 hours a day.

From the operating table the patients are removed to a large tent. There were 60 or 70 men lying on cots, all literally fighting for life.

Girl nurses and male attendants were at practically every bedside. Some were giving live blood, others plasma, others glucose and some oxygen.

HIGHER MORTALITY HERE

The mortality percentage of the wounded in this war is the lowest in history, running about two per cent, but that figure covers all fronts. It runs a great deal higher in these hospitals because of the serious condition of every patient.

Maj. Williams in the Clearage Hospital told me they performed 238 operations in the last two days, all of them extremely serious, mostly for stomach and chest wounds—and had lost just under 20. Those with bad stomach wounds have two little rubber tubes inserted in their nostrils. water from the bottle suspended over their beds flows through these tubes, down into their insides, and drains into other little bottles on the floor. Thus the wound is constantly flushed with sterilized fluid.

Maj. Williams had taken a piece of shrapnel from the head of one of the boys the night before. The youngster was breathing oxygen through a little rubber mask and the major said he had about a 50-50 chance.

Production Lag Caused by Battles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP) — Announcement of tighter production procedures in several war-important industries may come today from War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes.

The plans, hinted at in advance by informed persons, are the outgrowth of a meeting Byrnes has held at the White House this week with military and civil officials.

One goal has been the elimination of less-essential work in fields such as the forge and foundry industry, so that available labor could be devoted completely to such urgent programs as parts for heavy trucks and tanks.

A continuing problem has been the reported drift of labor from war production to non-essential jobs.

In most cases, the lag is not caused by a slump in productivity of management and labor, but by increased military requirements sent skyward by the major battles in progress in Italy and France.

Handicapped by labor shortages and in some cases by the manpower bottleneck in forgings and castings, industry has not been able to shift production emphasis as rapidly as the military—impelled by actual combat experience—has expanded its estimates of needed weapons.

The six most worrisome shortage items were listed as:

1—One type of radar. Output must double the June rate.

2—Heavy-duty trucks. June's production rate must double.

3—Fragmentation and general-purpose bombs. Production must go 50 per cent higher than June.

4—Heavy artillery. The problem is in forging and machining capacity.

5—Heavy artillery ammunition. Must go up 40 per cent.

6—Medium tanks and tank destroyers. An almost complete conversion needed in some plants.

Mass Promotions New Hitler Trick

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, who has accused certain German army elements of attempting to slay him, is employing mass promotions of SS leaders to higher military rank in an apparent move to tighten Nazi party control over the Wehrmacht, German broadcasts have disclosed.

Gen. Baron Ritter von Hengel, commander of mountain troops and a Nazi party member, has been appointed "Chief Nazi Political Commissar" in the army, and the rank of colonel general has been given to Joseph Dietrich, former commander-in-chief of Hitler's personal bodyguard and now commander of the Hitler SS division in Normandy.

Also appointed a colonel general was Paul Hausser, commander of the German Seventh Army in Normandy and second in command to ailing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. Gen. Karl Oberg, Gestapo chief in Paris, was promoted to full general, five SS major generals were made lieutenant generals, three brigadiers were promoted to major general, and 11 officers were advanced to full generals.

Pretended Death To Escape Capture

By HUCK FINNEGAN

ENGLAND—Pvt. Pelham Noyes, 21, of 16 Center st., Brunswick, Me., had a memorable, if brief, visit in Normandy.

The baby-faced paratrooper landed behind the German lines on D Day, worked effectively all day long.

"At night I was with a scouting party, 500 yards ahead of the rest of the outfit. The Germans set a trap, came in behind us and cut us off. A machine-gun bullet pierced my right foot, and it looked as if I was a dead duck. I threw myself into a ditch and pretended I was dead. Germans swarmed around me, all night long."

There was nothing he could do but lie there, what with his foot shattered, so "I just played possum. Our boys took the position the next morning, found me and shipped me to the field hospital."

Noyes' wound was aggravated by the night spent in Normandy's mud, but now he was able to hobble about without crutches, and he expected to rejoin his outfit in six weeks.

His is one family that has gone all-out in this war. He has five brothers, all in uniform. Elmer, 30, is with the Army in Panama; Jim, 32, with the air corps in Texas; Philip, 26, with the Army in Iceland; Floyd, 24, with the Navy in the So. Pacific. "God knows where Bill (19) is," said Pelham. "He was with the Marines and was captured in the Pacific. I hate to think of him rotting in a Jap prison camp." I wish this European war would end in a hurry, so I could go to the Pacific and look for him."

HIT IN BOTH LEGS

PFC. Vincent Cox, 21, of 4 Eureka st., Lubec, Me., arrived in Normandy at 10:30 a. m. on D-Day, fought without let-up until June 16 at Montebourg, when he was hit by shrapnel in both legs. He was a motor man with an infantry division. "I had just sat down to 'dinner,'" he said, "when a shell exploded right beside me. It was almost a direct hit. A foot either way, and Vincent Cox would have been a mere memory."

Pvt. Gerald Ward, 22, Thorndike, Me., had graduated from Freedom Academy and completed three years at U. of Maine, when duty called. He's a rifle expert with the 4th division. He was a D-Day arrival and was in the thick of it until June 19. "I had just shot a sniper when a machine gun burst hit my left shoulder. I was partially paralyzed."

Ward liked the Normandy countryside. "It's a rich country," he said. "I had my first fresh milk in two years there. Beefsteak, chicken and fresh eggs were obtainable. I'll be back there soon." He will be, too. He had been reclassified to C grade, and had only a few weeks to go before he would return to action.

"I have an aunt living at 5 No. High st., Melrose," he added. "Name is Mrs. Katherine Stanley."

Ward's brother, Kenneth, 19, Tech. Sgt. with the Marines, was killed in the South Pacific. Brother Gerard, 21, is with the Army in Texas. Gerald hopes to study civil engineering at Columbia after the war.

COMBAT TEACHER

PFC John Mosto, 23, of 18 Pleasant ter., Lawrence, was in the camp convalescing from a broken foot. "I didn't get it in Normandy," he said, morosely. "I'm a member of the combat engineers and was loading a supply truck when a roll of cable wire fell on my foot." It was a nasty break, literally and figuratively. "A soldier doesn't like to be left behind, especially after he has gone through day and night problems with his company," Mosto said. His left foot had been in a cast six weeks, and only that day had he tossed away his crutches. He expected to join his company in Normandy in six weeks. Daily letters from Rose Francati, 32 Jackson st., Lawrence, helped to keep him in cheery mood. Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sebastiano Mosto, knew of his injury.

Similar to Mosto's was the case of PFC Leon J. Bocian, 33, who lived with his sister, Mrs. Helen Gorak, 93 Sterling st., Worcester. Bocian worked in Grafton Hospital for six years, switched to Dixmont, Pa. There he met a French doctor and together in 1940 they enlisted in the Canadian army for duty with French Polios, a medical unit. In July of '43 he transferred to the U. S. Infantry. He suffered a spinal injury in a fall down stairs, was improving fast, expected to get into action in a few weeks.

HELD AS INSTRUCTOR

Charles Helmar, 26, was sent to the camp with a back injury, impressed the medicos with his physical training ability, was retained as instructor. Charlie was assistant golf pro at Franconia C. C., Springfield, three years ago, married Rena Lewandos of that city. She's now living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Helmar, Wyola rd., Nantasket. A sister, Mrs. Jeanne Phipkins, lives on Alden ave., Hull.

"I'm not going back to golf," he said. "I've found my niche. After the war I'm going to get a job with Mass. General or Boston City Hospital as physical instructor for convalescents. I'll be happy in that job, knowing I'm helping. Golf is an ideal form of recreation for convalescents. But we're short of equipment. Do me a favor, will you? Ask Bill Grimes to ship me some golf balls. The 'trainees' would certainly appreciate them."

Upon leaving the camp there approached a first sergeant whose face seemed quite familiar. Filene's? Arch Grill? Righto. His name was Paul Bertman, 32, of 333 Harvard st., Cambridge, who went to Filene's from English High in '30, remained there for years. He looked slimmer than he did in yesteryear and admitted he had reduced from 160 to 140. He was attached to the medics at the camp. Brother Edward, 66 Beverly rd., Chestnut Hill, was still in Filene's. Brother Irving, the attorney, lives at 15 Egmont rd., Brookline. "Remember me to Skid Gallent," he waved.

N. Y. Probes Win By Marcantonio

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 — Police Com. Valentine ordered Chief Inspector O'Connell to make a "thorough investigation" of alleged irregularities in the 18th Congressional District, where Vito Marcantonio, ALP designee, won the GOP and Democratic nominations for Congress.

From other sources came increasing indications that Congress will be asked to refuse to seat Marcantonio for reported violations of the Hatch Act.

Shot From Sky Closes Tonight

With a special Army Night program, featuring music by the Port of Embarkation Band and brief addresses by Lt. Clark Nichols of the Eighth Air Force and Harold D. Ulrich, chairman of the Standard Railroad Labor organizations, the AAF "Shot From the Sky" closes on Boston Common tonight.

The famed exhibit of captured enemy equipment, staged by the War Manpower Commission as a "Loyalty Week" attraction, has brought more than 15,000 inquiries for information about war jobs, officials reported.

Nearly 300 workers already have been placed in war jobs, it was announced. It is estimated that 1000 men and women workers will have been gained for war production when the show ends tonight and that another 1000 will enter war work in the near future.

Officials of the show said that 1000 souvenirs were available and that it hoped that today's final drive will net a war worker for each of the souvenirs.

New Tests for Draft Rejects

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (INS)—Local draft boards were ordered to re-examine their files of 18 through 25-year-old registrants who were unable to pass previous educational and mental tests and to have "borderline cases" take new, more accurate educational and mental examinations.

Commuter Quit By Both Wives

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (INS)—Testimony that Charles Gaeta, 30, a Chicago meat dealer, commuted between two wives whom he kept 552 miles apart won wife No. 1 a divorce today.

Mrs. Jane Gaeta, 27, told Judge John Prystalski in circuit court that she married Gaeta in Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1935. She said they moved to Chicago but that Gaeta induced her to return to Jamestown the following year while he remained in the meat business in Chicago.

Mrs. Gaeta said she recently learned that her husband married Bertha Hummel July 25, 1942. A month ago Miss Hummel discovered that there was another Mrs. Gaeta and obtained an annulment from Judge Thomas J. Lynch in circuit court.

Mrs. Gaeta No. 1 said she heard about it, moved to Chicago and filed a suit for divorce, charging bigamy and misconduct. She was awarded custody of a daughter, Patricia, two, and $30 a week alimony.

GI Joe Can't Find French Gals of '18

By HAL BOYLE

FRANCE, Aug. 4 (AP)—Many a soldier fighting in France wonders how the country could have changed so much. Listening to his old man tell about the days back in 1918, he had an idea it was a doughboy's paradise with tasty wine at every farmhouse and a beautiful mademoiselle waiting by every rose bush.

So far GI Joe has seen very few mademoiselles, and few of those interested in flirtations.

As for that wine about which American Legionaires reminisce at annual conventions—Normandy farmers nowadays keep their good wine out of sight and a thirsty doughboy takes chances on stomach ulcers if he imbibes too much of the native drinks of cider or calvados.

The cider is harder than the plating on a Mark V tank and tastes like vinegar fortified with denatured alcohol and alum. The calvados is distilled apple brandy that makes Jersey lightning seem as gentle as buttermilk.

Most soldiers are surprised at the size of Normandy peasant girls who aren't the petite packages they expected but strapping farm girls able to do a man's work in the fields.

The girls are a little suspicious, too, and when Johnny Doughboy comes courting with packages of cigarettes, a bar of chocolate or a cake of toilet soap, he has to pass an inspection by papa and mama before he gets to take Janet for a stroll across the pasture.

The boys are pretty low about the whole situation. If a daughter of Mademoiselle from Armentieres ever shows up at this front she will have several hundred thousand doughboy suitors!

Found Guilty of 22 Deaths in Arson Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4 (AP)—George Holman, 47-year-old Negro cafe proprietor, was found guilty late last night on 22 counts of murder in the first degree for setting the fire which destroyed the New Amsterdam Hotel March 28.

Twenty-two persons, many of them war workers, lost their lives.

Sub for Barrel

AMESBURY, Aug. 4—Startled High st. residents who saw Robert Ricker, 9, strolling by with a large pasteboard carton covering all but his legs, thought at first it was a waste paper salvage drive stunt.

But it wasn't. Robert, it seems, just couldn't find a barrel.

The youngster told police some older boys stole his clothes while he was swimming at Lake Gardner. He found the carton, punched two holes in it, and was able to maneuver his way home in full modesty. Theft of the lad's clothing is being probed.

Probers Accuse Liquor's 'Big 4'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Senate Liquor Shortage Investigating Committee accused four big distillery groups of moving to monopolize the production of all alcoholic beverages, including whisky, wine and beer.

The report made public by chairman McCarran (D.) of Nevada, said that together, the National Distillers Products Corp., Schenley Distillers Corp., Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, and Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts, "have in their possession today about 70 per cent of the nation's supply of whisky."

The committee recommended action by the Department of Justice.

The committee expressed concern over a "tendency of the big four" to remove small distillers from competition, "because when the act of monopolizing the liquor industry has been completed it will then be too late to remedy the harmful effect it will have had upon the public."

SEE INSTRUCTION NO. 2
Dear Folks:- Thanks for sending the copy of our local paper. Reading all the news was almost like being home again.
One thing I didn't like to read was the story about 6,700 war workers in Massachusetts quitting their jobs in May and June. And the story about war production lagging—that's bad. We guys on the fighting lines don't like to feel the workers at home are letting us down.
If those people who quit their jobs feel the war is over—they better think again. It's not over by a long shot. Our officers keep telling us when the target is in sight and it looks like Victory—that's not the time to relax. Keep the pressure on 'til the battle is won.
And that's what the folks at home should do. If they have a war job, stick to it,—if they haven't get one. It takes an awful lot of equipment to lick these buzzards, and we need more and more of it—or else!
Yours for more work and fight, G.I. Joe

Legal Clouds Clear For Eloping Brides

The future of two 16-year-old brides, wanted by Maine authorities for falsifying their ages so they could participate in a triple elopement ceremony in Portland, today appeared likely to be settled by what the Governor of Massachusetts has to say to the Governor of Maine, and —by the time they get around to it—by what the Governor of South Carolina has to say, too!

While Municipal Court Judge Joseph T. Zottoli was deliberating a Boston police request for fugitive of justice warrants against the brides, one of them, the former Barbara Browne of Hyde Park, was preparing to leave with her soldier-husband, Pvt. William F. Bernier, to take up residence near his Army post at amp Croft, S. C.

TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

Both Barbara and the other under-age bride, Doris M. McMaster, also of Hyde Park, who married Francis X. Foley of Seymour st., Dorchester, have announced they will not waive extradition to Maine.

In seeking fugitive of justice warrants against the girls from municipal court, Boston police acted at the behest of Portland police who insisted the pair be apprehended. The court took the matter under consideration.

Francis Purinton, executive secretary to Gov. Sewall of Maine, said extraditing of the girls would require a request by Gov. Sewall to Gov. Saltonstall and depend on the Massachusetts executive's decision.

Both governors are attending the Dewey conference in St. Louis and when Gov. Sewall returns, his secretary said, "he is going to be so very busy I doubt if he will be able to consider this matter for quite a while."

By then, it would seem, Bride Barbara Bernier will be residing below the Mason-Dixon line, near Camp Croft.

Which is where the governor of South Carolina comes in.

All in all, it looks like a happy ending.

Films Better Than 'All King's Men'

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 (AP)—There's adventure in the movies—even for a pile of brick.

Three years ago, Columbia bought a heap of old brick rubble and used it in a picture to depict a burned New England factory.

Since then, it has represented wrecked buildings in Warsaw, Stalingrad, Cassino and other war-stricken cities.

Recently workmen assembled the brick into a London saloon. Then it was photographed being blasted, presumably by a German bomb.

Afterward, the workmen did a Humpty-Dumpty act and put all the bricks back together again as the saloon had to be reconstructed for added sequences.

Hub Scientists First to Fertilize Human Eggs in Test Tube

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—The first artificial fertilization of human ova, or eggs, in a glass test tube, entirely outside the bodies of the mothers and fathers, was announced today in the journal Science.

Although this is technically the first actual step in test tube babies which have for years been rumored in laboratories, the experiments indicate absolutely no way to produce babies artifically.

They are a medical study of the very first steps of human conception: Two of these human eggs divided, each into two cells, and a third divided further into three cells.

These early steps are impossible to observe in life. The test tube technique makes them visible for the first time. Everything in this study was done under the eye of a microscope, with photographic attachments which made permanent records.

One special purpose of the study was to get information on the rather baffling problem of human sterility.

The work is reported by John Rock and Miriam F. Menkin of the department of gynecology, Harvard Medical School, and the fertility clinic laboratory, Free Hospital for Women, Brookline, Mass.

The human ova were obtained from women in their thirties, during surgical operations in which finding and recovery of these eggs was a by-product. One woman yielded 13 eggs. The Harvard scientists worked six years before they were able successfully to initiate the first steps in conception.

One of the early difficulties was keeping the human eggs alive long enough. Numerous techniques were tried. One that worked well was keeping them in serum taken from the mother herself.

Another problem was how long the male sperms had to be in contact with the egg or its immediately surrounding tissues before fertilization occurred. In the successful cases, this contact lasted about one hour.

During that time the microscope showed the sperms in great activity, clustering around the ovum, and making their way through layers of tissue that normally enclose the human egg.

After fertilization, the first cleavage of the egg into two tissue cells, took place in from 40 to 46 hours. This cleavage is the first step in development of a living body. It is the beginning of formation of the billions of tissue cells which finally form a complete individual. This dividing of cells is not the only process in growth, but it is one of the principal ones.

Along with the increase in number of tissue cells, goes the appearance from time to time of many different kinds of tissue cells, which ultimately form the widely varied tissues and structures of the human body.

The U. S. Coast Guard Speaks on Its 154th Birthday

I am the Coast Guard of the United States.
I was launched as the "U. S. Revenue Marine"
In 1790 by Alexander Hamilton, under
The Treasury Department, with ten cutters,
To assure the collection of customs . . .

From 1797 to 1801 in undeclared war with France
My cutters operated with the U. S. Navy for the First time, capturing EIGHTEEN of twenty-two French vessels seized, and assisting in the Capture of two others . . .

In the War of 1812 my cutter "Jefferson" made
The FIRST CAPTURE of the war, the British brig "Patriot."
My cutter "Louisiana" fired the LAST NAVAL SHOT
At the Battle of New Orleans . . .

It was I who stamped out piracy in American waters
From 1814 to 1819 when my cutters chased down
Pirate ships in the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico.
My cutters "Alabama" and "Louisiana" finally Destroyed Breton's Island, the Pirate stronghold.

From 1836 to 1839 in the war against the Seminole Indians my cutters guarded our forts
While my Coast Guardsmen chased invisible savages
Through the Everglades and swamps . . .

Thus on went my colorful career,
Fighting side-by-side with the ARMY, NAVY and MARINES,
In all our wars,
Stopping smuggling and collecting precious
revenues,
Fighting Indians and Pirates . . .
Always a stout, versatile FIGHTING ARM of Uncle Sam.

If you were alive in 1848 you must remember
How my cutters successfully blockaded
The coasts of Mexico in the Mexican War . . .
And from 1861 to 1865 in the tragic Civil War
Most of my cutters were on the side of the North.
I blockaded southern ports and my cutter
"Harriet Lane"
Fired the first naval shot of the Civil War
Returning fire on Fort Sumter.

My boys were COMMANDOS before the word
Was ever invented. My cutter "Lincoln"
Was the first U. S. ship in Alaskan waters
When Uncle Sam purchased Alaska in 1867.
My cutter "Bear" saved the whaling fleet
When it was ice-bound for 103 days in the Arctic
In 1897 in a DARING rescue.
My cutters fought with Dewey in the Spanish-American War.

It was my cutters that pioneered
Ship-to-shore radio communication in 1904.
I was officially called "The Coast Guard"
By an Act of Congress in 1915,
Combined with the life-saving service.

In World War I and World War II
My boys have distinguished themselves
On the seven seas and on EVERY FIGHTING FRONT . . .
I am 154 YEARS OLD today . . .
Still full of pep . . . and fight . . . and ready for action
Whenever and wherever our priceless heritage,
FREEDOM, needs
A two-fisted sea-going champion!

The endless whisper of the sea is my music . . .
The sighing of the winds over the graves
Of my brave sons who were gathered
To the arms of Mother Ocean
Tears at my heart . . .
It is sad, sweet music . . .
But the sweetest music I could ever hear
Would be the bells at Christmastime this year
Pealing out the joyous tidings of a just and victorious
"Peace on earth to men of goodwill" . . .

WASHINGTON, Aug 4—My spies who get around everywhere disguised as well-dressed business men—I press their pants every morning to keep them looking dapper—report that quite a controversy is brewing in our rubber relations with Mexico.

It seems that our government is spending more than a modicum of money and energy to make Mexico adore us. Yet it is flouting the Mexican law in the matter of rubber production.

My spies report as follows:

When the tire situation became critical, a couple of big tire companies that have subsidiaries in Mexico tried to get permission to expand their activities down there. They wanted to spend their own dough to do this, but the government said "no."

The government said "no" because the project would necessitate shipping tire-making machinery from here to Mexico and transportation facilities already were overloaded. The two tire companies grumbled and growled, but did not put up much of a struggle.

Now, it seems that Mexico has a very stringent law governing industry. No company is permitted to operate there unless 51 per cent of the stock is owned by Mexican citizens, with Mexicans composing a majority of the directorate.

The two tire companies had complied with this edict. And they had cornered most of the Mexican tire business.

However, another company which had no set-up in Mexico to speak of, and certainly nothing in which Mexicans had 51 per cent control, wished to get launched into that market. So it opened a small plant about 20 miles outside Mexico City and then made representations to our government.

It must have been quite persuasive because the government gave it the O. K. to start making tires in Mexico. Furthermore, the government shipped $1,000,000 worth of government-owned machinery to it!

THE OTHER two companies, naturally, have let out loud yelps—and are trying to get the Mexicans all worked up. In fact they have howled so vociferously that the American Embassy in Mexico City has sent word to the State Department that maybe the whole deal should be reconsidered.

I AM WELL AWARE that a degree of eccentricity or caprice is considered laudable out in Hollywood. But I think David O. Selznick, the movie maker, is abusing the privilege.

Mr. Selznick has sent word that he is coming to Washington for his summer vacation.

THE MANUFACTURER of celluloid epics—I got that out of a trade paper—confided that he prefers Washington in the summer time to California.

He said that he thinks the capital is a very nice vacationland. I am not an alarmist, but I would seriously advise Mr. Selznick not to go around Washington these days repeating that to strangers. I am almost sure most of them would go berserk.

PLEASE UNDERSTAND that I am not drawing any invidious comparisons between California and Washington because I have customers in both places and they are very lovely customers indeed. In fact, any paper which carries my column is a fine, upstanding publication—dauntless and diligent in the public service—and I won't hear a word to the contrary.

The only thing I will say is that I know about Washington weather in the summer. It gets quite humid on occasion. I do not know much about California. The only time I was in Hollywood it was raining but I was assured that this was practically a phenomenon.

JUDGING from what I have been told about Hollywood, Mr. Selznick seems to have still another perverse streak. He is an out-and-out Republican!

I WISH I could learn to keep my big trap shut about matters which are none of my concern. The other day I wrote a piece about a girl in the Maritime Commission who received a $5 prize for a suggestion that mirrors be removed from wash basins in ladies' wash rooms.

Desiring to throw my weight around, I said it was undoubtedly a constructive suggestion.

So what happened? So now I have every man in the building in which I work threatening horrible vengeance.

It seems some dope misread the thing and removed the mirrors from the men's wash room!

AS YOU KNOW, I am always on the alert for items of significance. Well, there is a huge mahogany table in the rotunda of the executive wing at the White House.

This table was the gift of Aguinaldo, who led the Philippines insurrection in 1898, but later became an avowed pal of ours.

There has been talk that Aguinaldo has forsaken this friendship since the Japs took over. This may be true—or it may not. The office of the Philippines Commonwealth here says it has been unable to obtain any authentic information.

However—the table at the White House has developed a wide, gaping crack!

The moon flouts to the bosom of the sky
And rests there like a lover;
The evening wind passes over the lake,
Touches and passes,
Kissing the happy, shivering
waters.
How serene the joy,
When things that are made for each other
Meet and are joined.

DE WOLF HOPPER was married eight times. That is the Broadway and Hollywood record . . . And things I would like to see: Fannie Brice playing Lady Macbeth . . . Today I was in a place that sold nothing but fresh doughnuts and coffee. It had six stools and three waitresses. The business was terrific. Fighting men thinking of going into business after the war should give this type of place a thought. Remember, a veteran will be able to borrow up to $4000 from the government at 4 per cent to start in business for himself.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Name of a Pittsburgh, Pa., resident is Emancipation Proclamation Logsall . . . It is claimed there are 43,000,000 persons in the United States who drink hard liquor. Of these, however, only 3,000,000 are heavy drinkers.

SIDELIGHTS: It was Gertrude Bailey who said: "A woman does not expect a man to understand a hat, but she hopes he will notice it. It is the failure of a new hat to bring forth any comment that drives a woman to greater extremes in millinery" . . . Marguerite Kirmse is said to have sold more etchings for cash than any living artist. All Margaret's etchings are of dogs . . . A real old time film fan is one who recalls Mary Fuller in "What Happened to Mary" or Clara Kimball Young in "The Common Law."

PLEASE NOTE: That color expert is still claiming that when a secretary is going to ask her boss for a raise or a day off she should wear a blue and white polka dot dress. This type of garment, says the color expert, has a tendency to radiate cheerfulness and will put the boss in good humor. Have heard this claim before but never had it checked. Will have our Horses & Women experts look into it.

ASIDES: Cheer up, lady, one expert says: "Nylons should come back quickly once the German war ends" . . . The mountains are fine but the place I like to be in summer is by the seaside. You can't top that morning swim in the ocean and the scent of the sea air in the evening.

PORTHOLES: Prophet says "there will be luxury liners without portholes after the war. Air conditioning will be used." I wouldn't care to travel on a liner without portholes. Think of the thrills you have had getting up in the morning and looking out of the porthole. One morning I got up, looked through a porthole and saw for the first time the rock of Gibraltar.

BRIEFLY: In Detroit there is a law firm named Koscinski, Kaminski, Poleski and Wojcinski. It is a good thing they are not ball players or then Harry Heilman, the Detroit sports announcer, might fracture a tonsil trying to say: "A double play: from Koscinski to Wojcinski to Koscinski to Poleski to Kaminski." . . . Anna Jarvis is still being credited with having originated Mother's Day, but she didn't. It was in 1904 that Fran Hering, then a professor at Notre Dame University, made a speech in Indianapolis, Ind., in which he appealed for a day of national observance in honor of mothers. Anna Jarvis did not make the suggestion until 1908.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4—Veronica Lake may not get that chance to walk across the Paramount lot to RKO for Niven Busch's "Duel in the Sun," for the reason that she will have the top role in "Miss Susie Slagle's" at her home studio. She doesn't play the aging boarding housekeeper, Miss Slagle, but she will be seen as a glamorous nurse with whom the hero falls in love.

Betty Field has bowed out as Miss Slagle and today Lillian Gish was tested for the part. She'd be wonderful, and it seems more than likely she'll get it. Joan Caulfield of "Kiss and Tell" fame plays another nurse, and Sonny Tufts is her doctor boy friend.

The book, by Joan Caulfield Augusta Tucker, has been changed considerably, but the interest at Johns Hopkins Hospital and the University is still high.

DEAN HARENS made "Christmas Holiday" with Deanna Durbin so long ago without another assignment coming up I was beginning to wonder what cooked. Far from forgetting about him, Universal has been waiting for just the right follow up. Dean looks nothing like Van Johnson, but his bosses think he will appeal to the same audience of junior misses. So today comes the announcement that he goes into the top spot in Walter Wanger's "Salome, Where She Danced," my favorite title. As I told you before, it's the name of a town and Harens plays a dashing bandit of the 1870's.

GARY COOPER'S office is so attractive I'd like to move right in. It was done by Don Loper and has bright green and red chairs against a light beige background, all modernistic. I saw it the day I went on the lot to see "Casanova Brown." While there I was told that Michael O'Shea had just been signed by William Goetz to play opposite Sonja Henie in "It's A Pleasure." He was borrowed from Hunt Stromberg, who still holds his contract.

MARGARET SULLAVAN leaves for New York Aug. 22 to re-open in "The Voice of the Turtle." I asked Leland Hayward if she was going to do the movie version at Warners. "Nope," he said, "she says when she finishes the stage play she's never going to act again on stage or screen. She's just going to come home and stay with me." Do you believe that?" I asked him. "Nope," he said.

ANOTHER OLDIE pops up for remaking. "Down to the Sea in Ships." This is the movie, made in 1923, that really launched Clara Bow to stardom in the role of a roughneck kid, and Clara caused more comment and excitement than the excellent whaling scenes. Louis

"I was never more embarrassed in my life! The fellows DIDN'T whistle when I walked by!"

Leighton is the producer who is resurrecting the sea saga and Talbot Jennings is already so far along on the new script it may be Louis' next, following "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." He tells me the Navy has lifted the ban on offshore filming and that it will be possible to shoot the whaling scenes off the coast of Southern California, where some of the biggest whales in the world do their splashing.

ALICE FAYE has had no trouble with 20th, she told me, and she doesn't expect to retire from the screen. "I had a nice and satisfactory talk with Darryl Zanuck," she said, "and he agreed it would be foolish for me to make a picture until we have a good story. I won't object to a drama or musical just so I feel it's right. I really want to wait until January before I return to work. I am enjoying my babies so much and I couldn't see Phil if I were busy. I am happy and I want to hold on to my happiness and not let anything interfere. I've waited a long time for this." Alice and her husband, Phil Harris, are doing all sorts of odd jobs around the ranch and loving it.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Don't be surprised if Rita Beery, Wally's ex, marries Col. Al Bodie. Their romance is hot and heavy; Esther Williams' big moment seems to be Sgt. Ben Gage, former radio announcer. They have been at Dalton's steak house night after night; Paula Bruce, who has been with the RCAF, is home visiting her parents, the Nigel Bruces; Countess Di Frasso has slipped quietly into town and none of her old palsy-walsys have seen her; Bing Crosby telephoned to say au revoir before he left for an undisclosed overseas spot to entertain the boys; Frank Kerwin sold his Sugar Hill cafe and will open a new place in Mexico City with Carlos Ramirez; the most fabulous writing contract in town is the one M-G-M gave Robert Nathan to write any original that he wishes; who was the beauty out stepping with Artie Shaw? Joan Blondell and her two children have gone to Arrowhead and will live in a trailer; Ruth Nagel is here on a visit with her father, Conrad Nagel, and her mother, Mrs. Sidney Franklin; the Lynn Howards (Judith Barrett) welcomed a son; Bob Benchley has been ordered to drop 40 pounds before he faces the cameras; Perc Westmore's daughter, Norma, will be married today in Oklahoma City to Cadet Earland Bashaw of the Air Force; Joy Hodge's husband, Sgt. Paul Dudley, narrowly escaped death when a robot bomb hit a nearby building in London; Dolores Moran and Steve Crane at Slapsy Maxie's.

Smart Set Seeks Fame in Films

By BETTY ALDEN

DUE TO THE WARTIME shortage of servants, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Pickman have closed Grey House, their beautiful seaside home at Beverly which requires a household staff of a dozen or more to be efficiently run, and are spending the summer at their small farm in Hamilton. This was Mrs. Pickman's summer home in the late 20's when she was the widow of Alexander Lynde Cochrane and before her marriage to Mr. Pickman.

With two of her children, Nancy and Budsey, in the Army, and Lucy in Hollywood coaching for the movies, the family is small enough to be cosily accommodated in the little farmhouse which adjoins the estate of their close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sears.

Even with the younger fry scattered, Mrs. Pickman finds there is always something doing and she, herself, is busy on the home front with her work as a Nurse's Aide at the big new military hospital in Waltham and Beverly Hospital. She recently had a visit from Budsey, a gunnery instructor in the Air Corps in Arizona, who came home with his wife and baby girl, Diana James Cochrane; and Nancy, a corporal in the WAC, is expected on a three-day pass this week-end.

LUCY'S LETTERS are full of vivid, newsy tidings from the movie capital, where she is working hard under the tutelage of a 20th Century-Fox dramatic coach. She sees a great deal of her good friends, Lt. Com. and Mrs. Reeves Wethereil, who were stationed in Boston last year, and Conrad Aikens, author of "Mrs. Januarius and Mr. X," a play in which Lucy had a junior role on Broadway after winning her spurs in Ziegfeld Follies.

Jean Cochrane, youngest of the family and a deb of last winter, is yesterday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Chatfield, Jr., of Cincinnati, parents of her fiance, Albert Bruce Wallace Chatfield, USNR. He is in the Navy V-12 program at Ann Arbor and hopes to get home for some of the entertaining his parents and sisters, Mary and Ann, will do for Jean.

An Army-Coast Guard romance is revealed in news of the engagement of Capt. Helen Gertrude Verdale, WAC, to Lt. Com. Walter Cromwell Wood, USCGR, of Cambridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Wood of Edgewood, R. I. The bride-elect, daughter of Mrs. Harry E. Verdale of Highland Park, Ill., is stationed at Petersburg.

Her fiance, popularly known as "Jack" Wood, is prominent in yachting circles in Boston as lecturer and racing skipper. He was in the class of '17 at M. I. T. and with the Air Corps in the last war. At present he is instructor in seamanship at the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London.

40 and 8 Engine On Paper Drive

The Bay State's growing stock pile of salvaged waste paper will be materially increased today from the collection made by a tooting bell-clanging "trainmobile," one of the famed "40 and 8" locomotives traditionally a feature of American Legion conventions.

Mayor G. Edward Bradley, of Somerville, gave the paper train, the Waste Paper "Victory Special" donated by the Lowell 40 and 8 Voiture, its send-off for its Massachusetts' tour.

"The Victory Special" carried an impressive exhibit of war materials made of paper and will be equipped with a public address system, contributed by business concerns, over which there will be broadcasts to spur the waste paper salvage drive.

Representatives of the New England publishers, WPB and American Legion co-operated in the conversion of the 40 and 8 engine into a "trainmobile" for the waste paper collection campaign, it was announced by B. G. Watters, secretary of the Massachusetts salvage committee. The committee in charge of the tour is headed by William J. McDonald of Time Magazine.

from Pipriac, the Americans were 18 miles outside Redon, chief communications center of southern Brittany.

The Americans were 41 miles from Vannes, port on the south side of the peninsula, and 70 from Lorient, an important port and U-boat base to the west.

As American spearheads raced toward these great ports the German front of organized resistance shrank to a mere 35 miles from Vire to Caen.

Bedraggled German units which once hemmed in the Allies along a 100-mile expanse in Normandy were retreating in confusion and abandoning equipment virtually everywhere except along a short stretch between Vire an Caen. The Allied offensive had developed into a sudden threat to the whole 40,000 square mile Seine Loire quadrangle.

Faced with the growing danger of entrapment against the Orne River, the Germans near the middle of their still organized line in Normandy lashed out in a series of tank-supported counterattacks and forced the British to fall back more than 2000 yards.

Thos blow staved off an immediate British threat to Aunay-sur-Odon. Bolstered by reinforcements from east of the Orne River, the Germans drove the British from St. Georges D'Aunay, La Lande and Le Manoir.

A British staff officer discounted the German gains around Aunay, declaring that the counterattacks might be the enemy's final gesture to cover a retreat from the river bastion

M'Grath Case Inquest Ends

A battery of stenographers transcribed thousands of words of testimony today as the inquest into the slaying of 10-year-old Frances McGrath, recessed after appearance of 161 witnesses.

Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing announced it would take five days to assemble the complete transcript of the proceedings, held before Judge Frances Geogan in Hingham District Court.

Every word then will be studied by the state police board of experts in the hope that some clue still may be unearthed to help solve the brutal murder which is just as much a mystery now as seven weeks ago.

Not Too Late for Planting

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Home Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.

V-garden production now is at its peak, with most early crops already harvested, and it is apparent to all that the 1944 food program will be materially aided by the millions who have given a few hours each week to the care of gardens.

The garden year is by no means over and there is still time to produce a few more crops in New England. Late beets and lettuce can be planted this week. Spinach and radishes can be planted up to Aug. 15 or 20. You must keep planting as long as you can to extend the production of local grown crops.

Much insect damage is showing up now that could have been controlled by following the proper spray program. In some cases the damage is so far advanced and the insect so well established that little can be done this year. You can, however, profit by your experience and make every effort to do a better job next year.

SQUASH VINE BORER

The large white worms feed inside the stem of all fall varieties of squash. They enter the stem just above the ground at the base of the plant and cause the plant to wilt and in some cases to die. When the symptoms are noticed it is usually too late to do anything. If the weather is hot and dry, the plant does not have much of a chance but with mellow soil between the rows, it is possible to get new roots established and save the crop. To control this insect it is necessary to apply dusts from June 20 to July 20 as this is the period when the moth is laying the eggs

CORN BORERS

Most corn growers have now seen the damage caused by the first generation of borers. This attack has been light, but there is another generation due this month. This second attack is usually much more serious.

Late corn planted to mature about Aug. 15-20 or later can be dusted with a fixed nicotine dust every 5 to 7 days. The dust must be forced into the whorl of leaves and tassel. This is a job that requires careful application and the results depend on how well it is done. Most commercial growers feel that they cannot afford to spend the money necessary for corn borer control, but this depends on the individual.

Good protection for home gardens will extend the corn season until frost.

'Eve of St. Mark' Given Hopeful Ending in Film

By PEGGY DOYLE

Maxwell Anderson's two-year-old stage hit, "The Eve of St. Mark," in its transference to the screen by 20th Century-Fox retains much of the terse, earthy dialogue of the original but has developed a hopeful ending.

On second thought on the way back from the Metropolitan Theater to this typewriter, it occurs that Hollywood, endlessly criticized for just such tampering, rates warm congratulation in this and other instances of contributing to homefront morale. There is in it the suggestion that relations and friends of Philippines' defenders listed as "missing in action" may take hope, like young Quizz's parents and sweetheart.

On this score and because it is, in essence, a GI Joe documentary in its vital sharp recapitulation of a youthful farmer inductee's conditioning to war at its rawest and his and a handful of comrades' calm acceptance of inevitable death at the hands of the Japs in the interest of holding back the enemy just a little longer, "Eve of St. Mark" is not to be missed.

Beautifully acted and directed, this superlative William Perlberg production is the kind of war picture that should hearten mothers and fathers, husbands and sweethearts of men who are responsible for Premier Churchill's prediction of victory sooner than he had once supposed. For those whose loved ones have joined the Valhalla of glorious warriors, it should provide some measure of comfort and pride.

William Eythe, as the farmboy inductee, discharges his most impressive film assignment thus far brilliantly. Another fine performance is turned in by that fine young actress, Anne Baxter, as the lad's tender, devoted sweetheart. These roles were played by William Prince and Mary Rolfe in the original stage production which opened here. In that production, Eddie Shea gave a notable characterization of a hard-boiled, hard-punching, Dodgers' fan-soldier which won him a Hollywood contract and a revamped name . . . Michael O'Shea, who is repeating that same excellent performance in the film version.

Vincent Prince, as the poetical

WILLIAM EYTHE

Southerner created by James Monks, Ruth Nelson and Ray Collins, as the youthful hero's parents; George Mathews, as the tough Sgt. Rugby and others contribute to the all-out top-drawer quality of the acting.

Purple Heart Film On Telepix Screen

"Wearers of the Purple Heart," a true story of personal victory, now showing Telepix screen, reveals the efforts made by the government to reclaim wounded servicemen. Other items on the bill are a backward glance with Mary Pickford and Charlie Chaplin, a Vera Vague comedy, a Kid in Upper Four short, cartoons and newsreels including news from Normandy.

Hampton Rhythm Wows 'Em

By DON WARD

Lionel Hampton and his band are driving 'em crazy this week on the RKO-Boston stage.

At least it was that way at the first show yesterday, when, it is only fair to report, the show wound up in delirium.

The immediate cause was "Flying Home," but the printed page of that piece contains no such ecstasy. It is Hampton's way with it, his ritualistic knack of stirring up a savage joy—as of some unutterable achievement.

And if you think the rhythm-mad audience didn't respond with moans of delight you don't know your K-Boston fans. They don't just listen to these siren sounds, they participate: clapping hands, rolling eyes, gasping, yelling out the intervals, oscillating in their chairs as the brassy sound smites without mercy their susceptible nerve centers.

Chaos? Not a bit of it. Mr. Hampton knows how to keep the frenzy controlled. A quick change of emotional pace hauls 'em back just as they totter on the verge. Sometimes it is a jolting chord—all right, dissonance—at another it is Mr. Hampton attacking the vibraphone, at which instrument he is probably the very top. Then he surprises by leaping at the piano and in his share of a four-handed assault on that helpless instrument or by pouncing on the drums.

Beauty, Talent Abound In Loew's Musical Hit

By JOYCE DANA

As lavish as the fountains of Versailles on a prewar Bastille Day, "Bathing Beauty," which decorates—and how!—the screens at the State and Orpheum, is one of Metro's most opulent eyefillers.

Short on story, but long on beauty, melody and thrilling acquatics, it's sure to cool you off and keep you happy.

It's Red Skelton, prancing around in a bouffant ballet costume, or going through his old vaude routine of a gal arising and getting herself dolled up for another day's conquest, who supplies the commedy in the middle of all the prodigal production. That "gal" stunt was always riotous and audiences love it.

But pushing for top honors is the swim star, Esther Williams. It's a toss-up whether Esther is more alluring in her delightfully abbreviated bathing toggery, or all dressed up. She's a knockout, either way, and Mr. Skelton is a lucky fellow.

For music-making, there's the Harry James outfit, with pretty Helen Forrest to give out with the vocals, and smooth-as-silk Xavier Cugat and his torrid Latin rhythms.

The story, if you must have one, is about Red's tune-making and his thwarted (for a while) romance and marriage with the lovely Miss W. It's producer Basil Rathbone, with just a faint suggestion of that famous sneer, who nips that affair in the bud.

It all comes out happily—and under water—with laughs along the way, and the most pretentious and ingenious water ballet ever devised. John Murray Anderson produced it. It has great fountains and flares and Esther Williams. Quite a sight—and all in Technicolor. Ethel Smith, the organist, has a nice featured spot, and the beauties are all that and more.

Beauty — Fragrantly Romantic at All Times — Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

ACCORDING TO LEGEND . . . Catherine de Medici believed that when a woman smelled like a flower . . . she actually was a flower. In fact, when she married the Duke of Orleans . . . later Henry II of France . . . she brought with her to France her favorite perfumer so she could go right on "being a flower all the rest of her life."

This is a lovely and poetic fancy . . . and though perhaps all of us cannot really attain the state of being a flower . . . still it's a happy thought Catherine de Medici gives us . . . to smell and look like a flower . . . especially during the hot weather.

Now is the time to dab and splash ourselves with delicate, delicious floral fragrances . . . and a genius perfumer who has won laurels for her true-to-life flower fragrance masterpieces . . . has some suggestions to help you freshen up your midsummer frocks and playclothes with the right perfume and toilet water.

HOURS OF DAINTINESS

For two-piece, bare midriff playclothes or backless and sleeveless outdoor frocks, with sarong playdresses or peasant blouses and shirt fashions . . . she would have you use a wood violet perfume and toilet water . . . because the heady odor of violets is intermingled with the fresh, tangy scent of green leaves in this fragrance . . . remaining fresh and cool on your skin. No matter how many hours you may play tennis or toil in the sun . . . this scent never turns grimy or sticky.

With prints, town cottons, or your afternoon sheers . . . crispy-sweet carnation . . . true to the delightful, matchless scent of the fresh flower . . . savory without being cloying or over-spiced is one of your top bets. You will always smell flower-fresh, garden-grown.

For summer moonlit evenings, garden or lawn parties, rooftop dancing, a bit of the romantic lily of the valley fragrance will cling to you with nostalgic sentimentality.

For the names of these perfumes and toilet waters, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LITHESOME JEAN PARKER . . . a favorite pin-up girl from the Aleutians to Australia . . . is a feminine counterpart of lovely, feminine perfume and toilet waters . . . to be used in warm weather to make a gal smell and look as fragrantly romantic as a beautiful flower.

GOLD-PLATED link necklaces will make a popular return this fall for the scheduled low-necked dresses for both day and evening wear. The pictured one is a three-strand necklace with gold-plated sterling grape cluster earrings studded with rhinestones . . . as magnificently executed as real pieces. Costume jewelry is smart when select and choice.—R. M.

Neutrals Pair in Dress For Big Fall Style News

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WE all know about how a pair of clashing bright colors can make drama when they get together. But it is news when a pair of neutrals do the same by joining in a dress. This is something that Mollie Parnis, a designer of ready-to-wear who is highly thought of, has invented as a new fashion for Fall.

In the model from Mollie Parnis, sketched here, the neutrals that make drama are shining black satin and soft, pale putty beige. The body of this dress is made of putty beige jersey, and the sleeves and V-shaped dickey and collar are black satin.

The belt is studded with gold nail heads to add a bit of sparkle to a slim waistline.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Thursday—Yesterday morning I arrived in Boston and went a little early to the church to attend Miss LeHand's funeral. Anyone who has led a busy life in which he has been indispensable to other people who are equally busy comes to realize—when stricken with an illness—that it is not one's activities which are really important in this life. When you lay down the things you do, day by day, someone else always takes them up. The really important thing is what you are as a person, what your character and your presence have meant to those you lived with, and what influence you have had on the atmosphere of your home or your environment—regardless of whether this was a restricted one, or a broad one which touched many lives and large numbers of people. That is what lives afterwards in the memories and in the hearts of those who knew and loved you. As you influenced these people, so your influence will spread, through their contacts and their activities.

Miss LeHand leaves a host of friends besides her family. Perhaps the way in which she bore the last few years of illness will have a greater influence on those around her than the many years in which she lived and worked in public life, when she did a valiant and important job.

I CAUGHT A plane back to New York city and was able to go in the afternoon to see the CIO war relief office on Broadway. I will tell you more about this in another column.

In the late afternoon I met some of the staff and delegates back from the Chicago convention. They were full of things they wished to tell me and I only hope I remember them all, for the value of an onlooker in politics lies in possessing a good memory, and in always being able to compare the present with the past when thinking of the future.

TALKING WITH HANDS! There are times when one may give emphasis to remarks with a wave of the hand. However, constant gesticulating, pointing or drumming the knuckles on the table is bad form.

Some Peach, Watermelon Treats for Winter Meals

By MARTHA LEE

CANTALOUPES and peaches vie for first place on fruit counters this week. They're plentiful and so are blueberries, plums and watermelons. For the fruit bowl, apples, bananas and pears — all in moderate supply.

While these fruits are so abundant, why not start now to preserve some for next winter's use? Try luscious peach jelly this very day—and you'll vote that its flavor equals that of sun-ripened fruit in the old home orchard. Follow directions exactly, for these recipes were developed exclusively for peaches.

RIPE PEACH JAM

4 cups prepared fruit
7½ cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel and pit or core about 3 pounds fully ripe fruit. Grind or chop very fine. If desired, 1 to 3 teaspoons spice may be added. (If peaches lack tartness, add ¼ cup lemon juice in addition to 4 cups prepared fruit.) Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into large kettle, and mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

RIPE PEACH JELLY

2½ cups juice 3½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice, pit and crush thoroughly (do not peel) about 2½ pounds fully ripe peaches. Add 1 cup water, bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. (Add a few crushed peach-pit meats to fruit during cooking.) Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If there is a slight shortage of juice, add small amount of water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again.) Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 3 to 4-quart saucepan. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

Have you ever tried pickled fruits? They are a grand accompaniment for meat.

PICKLED PEACHES

8 lbs. small or medium-sized peaches
2 tbsp. whole cloves
8 two-inch pieces stick cinnamon
4 lbs. sugar 2 qts. vinegar

Wash and pare peaches and stick two cloves in each peach. Or put cloves and cinnamon loosely in a clean, thin, white cloth and tie top tightly. Cook together spices, sugar, and vinegar for 10 minutes, or until the syrup is fairly thick. Add the peaches; cook slowly until tender, but not broken. Let stand overnight. In the morning remove spices if they have been cooked in a bag. Drain the syrup from peaches and boil syrup rapidly until thickened. Pack peaches in clean, hot sterile jars. Pour syrup over the peaches, filling jars to top. Seal tightly. Keep in a cool place for several weeks before serving, to blend the flavor.

WATERMELON PICKLE

4 lbs. prepared thick watermelon rind
Limewater made with 2 qts. cold water and
2 tbsp. lime (calcium oxide, purchased from drug store)
2 tbsp. whole allspice
2 tbsp. whole cloves
10 2-inch pieces stick cinnamon
1½ qts. vinegar
1 qt. water 4½ lbs sugar

Select thick rind from a firm, not overripe melon. To prepare, trim off the green skin and pink flesh. Weigh 4 pounds of the remaining portion and cut in inch pieces. Soak for 2½ hours in limewater. Drain, cover with fresh water, and cook for 1½ hours or until tender. Add more water as needed. Let stand several hours or overnight. Drain. Put spices loosely in a clean, thin, white cloth; tie top tightly. Bring to boiling the spices, vinegar, 1 quart water and sugar. Add the watermelon rind and boil slowly for 2 hours, or until the syrup is fairly thick. Remove spice bag; pack watermelon rind in clean, hot, sterile jars. Pour syrup over rind, filling jars to top. Seal tightly.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—Georgie Jessel is madly pursuing Billy Kaye's ex-wife, Barbara—and when Jessel pursues, he pursues with diamond bracelets. She's wearing a new one from him, and the talk is that he has proposed on bended knee . . . Young Pat Chaney and his chum will be surprised to learn here that the brave blonde who rescued them at Bay Shore when their boat capsized the other day was Gertrude Niesen, the musical comedy star . . . Lansing Hatfield, the baritone, is slated for the role of the Reverend Davidson in Ethel Merman's version of "Sadie Thompson" . . . Mervyn LeRoy is doing his best to ignite incendiary blonde, Betty Hutton.

AROUND BROADWAY they seem to think that Sammy Renick and Billie Boze are serious to the point of matrimony . . . Lina Romay, the singer, is having throat trouble—may need an operation . . . Word from the Coast has it that Clark Gable and M-G-M aren't seeing eye-to-eye on the subject of his next picture. The studio wants him to mark his screen return with a comedy, but Clark—probably because he has seen so much of battlefield and feels the public ought to be reminded of it, too—is holding out for a war film.

LOIS DE FEE is wearing a king-size star sapphire—a birthday present from an Army major . . . Andre Charlot, in whose reviews Gertie Lawrence, Bea Lillie and so many others attained stardom, is making a comeback as a screen-actor. He'll be seen briefly in "Summer Storm."

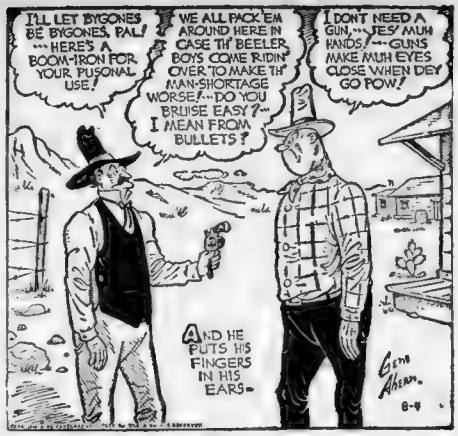
VAUGHN MONROE is recuperating from a tonsillectomy . . . The Duchess of Windsor probably won't be interested to learn that when Lois Andrews visited the Coq Rouge two evenings after Wally did, she was loaded down with three times as many jools . . . . Model Lynn Davis, whose pretty puss is on the cover of every magazine you pick up, is sniffing orange blossoms with Lt.-Com. Bob Hewitt . . . The rumors that Susan Hayward and Jess Barker were on the verge of separation already—after just a few days of matrimony — started naturally when they decided to keep their own apartments until they could find a home big enough for both of them.



I'LL LET BYGONES BE BYGONES, PAL! —HERE'S A BOOM-IRON FOR YOUR PUSONAL USE.

IT WAS a soy bean and sour cream diet that caused Vincent Lopez to lose that fast 40 pounds. But could it have been worth it? Ugh! . . . . Bette Davis has a new beau. They haunt Bob Dalton's but she won't allow photographers to take their picture . . . . Margaret Sullavan and Leland Hayward successfully squashed rumors that the stork was hovering over their house a couple of months ago. But the tidings are liable to be revived, because a gentleman is around town trying to procure an air conditioning unit for Miss Sullavan's dressing room, says the unit is essential because "she is expecting a baby."

LOCAL TAILORS confide that they'll stock up on brightly colored and gaily patterned suiting for men as soon as the war ends. They cherish a theory that returning veterans will want their first civvies to be flashy and as unlike uniforms as possible . . . Rumors have it that Oscar Levant won't return to the "Information Please" board of experts when the program goes back on the air.

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4—You and I are going to the movies again. It doesn't matter what picture, for soon after it starts unreeling there will be a very familiar sequence, and you will say to yourself that's where I came in. Take these cliche sequences.

Eve Arden

Robert Walker and Keenan Wynn are clerks in the brokerage house owned by Adolphe Menjou, who is the best dressed man in Wall Street. Now Walker and Wynn don't like Menjou because he's rich and they aren't and whenever Menjou is out of the office they amuse the stenographers, Ginger Rogers and Eve Arden, by giving imitations of the best dressed man in Wall Street.

One afternoon, after the close of the market, the boys are going through their routine, the girls are rolling in the aisles, which are filled with ticker tape, when suddenly Menjou enters. Eve Arden notices him first and pokes Ginger Rogers who swallows hard and signals to Keenan Wynn.

The signals have been going okay until Wynn tries to get Walker's attention, but of course he can't. Wynn tugs on Walker's coat sleeve, kicks him in the shins, but Walker won't take a hint. Walker keeps on doing his impersonation of Menjou until he turns around and finds himself face to face with Menjou.

The scene concludes with everyone getting fired, but that isn't too sad these days because you can always get another job.

FRED MacMURRAY is the wealthy owner of a defense plant. He falls for Dorothy Lamour who puts the nuts and bolts in the planes. He asks her for a date and she doesn't want to go at first because she has heard that he is a wolf.

They start out by eating dinner in Tony's joint which is downstairs. Dottie drinks champagne for the first time and giggles because the bubbles tickle her nose. Then we see a series of quick dissolves: Fred and Dottie on the chute-the-chutes at Coney Island, eating hot dogs, winning Kewpie dolls, at a movie holding hands, in the subway, and then at five in the morning riding a horse-drawn milkwagon. Fred is holding the reins and wearing the milkman's hat. Dottie is resting on Fred's shoulder and thinks he is too cute for words.

The milkman, Fred Orth, is wearing a look of resignation. They finally stop in front of Dottie's house. They stand posed in front of the door. Finally, Fred speaks. He says, "I never knew fun could be such fun."

Dottie kisses him impulsively, and then opens the door and rushes into the house. Fred walks down the street whistling, "Ain't She Sweet."

Dottie enters her small but lavishly furnished flat. She closes the door behind her and leans against it. She stands there sighing, and for all I know she is still leaning against that door.

Boston After Dark

IN THE FOOLISH TWENTIES—and sometimes in retrospect they don't seem so silly at all—five or six Broadway musical comedy and revue producers would have scouts haunting a Boston hotel these days because a possible musical find, whose reputation must have filtered back to the Big Street, is singing five or six songs a show (twice a night) at the place . . . But Johnny Johnston, making his first appearance "in person" since he made a hit on the air and in small assignments in pictures, hasn't been bothered at all.

IT MAKES you yearn for the enterprise that the Great Ziegfeld, the late, great Sam H. Harris, the shrewd, capable Schwab and Mandel firm, the ebullient Arthur Hammerstein, the dapper George White, the lachrymose Earl Carroll, or the fashionable Aarons and Freedley combination showed in competing for the best.

WE RECALL WHEN ZIEGFELD bid $25,000 in cash for the contract of one Paul Gregory (now dead) . . . Gregory was a juvenile . . . The size of the offer was not astounding, exactly . . . But Ziegfeld had to obligate himself personally to pay Mr. Gregory a large sum of wages each and every week for 40 weeks of seven impending years—a "pay or play" agreement which Mr. Hammerstein was pleased enough to duck . . . (He had signed Paul because a lady star had demanded him.)

THIS LAD, Johnny Johnston is undoubtedly made of the stuff from which musical comedy male stars are made . . .The boy can sing, as he proved in being the off-screen voice for Zorina's ballet in the snow in a Paramount picture called "Star Spangled Rhythm" . . . The song he sang so well became a jukebox feature, called, "Black Magic" (or would you like to forget?) . . . Johnny sings (at the dinner-show at least) each night . . . But he also sings "Swinging on a Star," from Bing Crosby's picture, "Going My Way," and not like Bing but in his own style . . . "I'll Be Seeing You," with an interpolation of a few bars from Noel Coward's "I'll See You Again," is another Johnston ballad that is beautifully done.

THE YOUNG MAN changes pace with a killer-diller number called "GI Jive," and he gets away with that nicely, too . . . The other Johnston assets which make him a certainty for Broadway stardom (in this opinion) are his nice eyes, his good taste, his poise, his sincerity (or convincing assumption of sincerity), his wit, his infectiously friendly manner, his clothes—yes, and his wavy light brown hair . . . Another big item in his favor is the lack of competition . . . There simply are not many adequate musical comedy leading men around.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Frank Petty, the hard-working, modest chap from Chelsea who worked in Boston night clubs while caring for an ailing wife and their child, has made the Big Time quicker than this column—always strongly on his side—expected . . . Frank now is vocalist with Guy Lombardo's band . . . Boston's famous West End House is paying tribute on Aug. 12 to Ernest Soucy, the Harvard football player who was director at the camp in the summers of 1914 and 1915 and who never lost interest in the settlement house . . . Ernie will be guest of honor at the West End summer camp, Long Pond, East Parsonfield, Me., and many of his old boys, including Etchie Cohen, will be on hand to salute him.

WALTER WAITTE, the former semi-pro ballplayer who was once a lifeguard at L Street, will be toastmaster of the annual dinner of the L Street Brownies . . . The date is Aug. 28, and the place the Hotel Sheraton . . . The date of the Old Howard's reopening is Aug. 18 not Aug. 12 . . . Vince Ladell has left Leo Reisman's orchestra and is doing a thrice weekly vocal broadcast over WEZ.

Montgomery and Beau Jack Clash

By JACK CONWAY

BOXING WILL make another all out war effort at Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight when Beau Jack, world's lightweight champion, and Bob Montgomery trade blows in a ten-round bout for which they will not receive one cent of compensation. Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Club will also pass up profits from the show.

Admission to the battle of the two foremost lightweights in the world will be by war bonds. As a result, the fans will witness the bout without charge. Later on Uncle Sam will return to them what they pay for the bonds plus interest.

Mike Jacobs

It is expected that the sale of bonds will run into the millions of dollars. It will be one of the greatest single efforts by the Treasury Department with the aid of a sports promoter to sell bonds.

Boxing is proud it is able to help. So is Mike Jacobs who is the game's top promoter.

Beau Jack and Bob Montgomery are privates in the Army. They have been granted special furloughs so that they can engage in tonight's bout. Under ordinary conditions, Beau Jack and Montgomery would each receive $30,000 for their efforts tonight. They are passing up these rich purses so that they can help the sale of bonds.

There are few people either in sports or in business who would hand over $30,000 of potential earnings to a war effort. Beau Jack and Bob Montgomery are entitled to take bows and get a pat on the back from Uncle Sam.

Efforts such as the two main bout boxers are making tonight make a special hit with service men on the fighting fronts. They help make them forget strikes and other acts that slow down war production.

The fact Beau Jack and Bob Montgomery have been given permission to box may later pave the way for a bout between Joe Louis and Billy Conn for the heavyweight championship of the world. Louis and Conn are now in Europe, and they would like to settle the question of supremacy in the ring.

Title Not at Stake

Bob Montgomery's title will not be at stake tonight. While Beau Jack is able to make the lightweight limit of 135 pounds, it was felt it would be asking too much of Montgomery to have him risk his championship in a bout in which he was not being paid.

Montgomery proved on one occasion he has the punch to beat Beau Jack. The latter came back and outscored Montgomery. Bob then won the rubber match.

It will once more be a battle between a puncher and a boxer. Montgomery is the hardest hitting lightweight in the business, while Beau Jack is an exceptional boxer.

Montgomery and Beau Jack are both reported as being in excellent condition, and they are expected to set a torrid clip from the opening gong.

Sox in Final Stand

THE RED SOX will open their final pennant stand when they clash with the Senators in a double-header at Fenway Park this afternoon. The men of Cronin play five games with the Senators and four each with Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis. Twenty-one games on their home grounds should determine whether the Sox can win the pennant, or whether they are going to meet with failure again.

American League managers do not think the Browns have the best club in the circuit, but St. Louis continues to lead. Unless one of the other teams shows consistent baseball and the Browns slip a bit, the World Series will be staged in St. Louis. Baseball writers cannot think of anything worse than covering an entire series in St. Louis.

The ideal series as far as the writers and fans are concerned is one that has at least one of the clubs from New York or Chicago. There are places to go in both of these cities. If the series goes to St. Louis, it will probably be covered by fewer sports writers than any series in recent years.

Random Shots at Target

THE FIRST three races at Rockingham Park went very true to form as Dark Mischief, Payable and Fire Ahead won at even money . . . Jockey Haslett, who was up on Dark Mischief, has lost his "hug" and, beginning today, will no longer have a five pound weight advantage.

Bright Arc with Jockey Jenkins up, broke the run of the form horses when he took the fourth race to pay $10.80 . . . Rough Command, who won the fifth race to return $11.60, was purchased last fall for $100 . . . It would have cost $2500 to have claimed Rough Command yesterday . . . When Rough Command went for $100 it was thought he was all through as far as the races were concerned . . . Yancey Christmas was training Rough Command to act as a pony when he showed signs of new racing life, and soon he was back in action . . . Rough Command has taken off considerable weight and does not tire in the stretch run as he did a year ago.

Weapon's Pride was carried wide by Two O'Clock which enabled Bomb Dolly with Jockey Trent up to come through on the rail to win the seventh race for the juicy payoff of $24.80 . . . Jockey Jenkins, who was up on Esta in the last race, waited too long to make his move and as a result was obliged to take second place to the speedy Peace Fleet . . . Bayport, who set the early pace, bore in on the rail in the race through the stretch and hit Junco with Jockey E. Gross at the controls . . . Bayport and Junco were well back of the leaders at the time and the jam did not have any bearing on the outcome of the race . . . It proved, however, that Bayport bears in and heads for the rail.

Jug McSpaden Rules Favorite on Coast

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. Aug. 4 (AP)—Jug McSpaden and Byron Nelson, who have split most of the major prizes on the play-for-pay links circuit this season, are the hot favorites to capture the $5000 Beverly Hills Open starting today.

A field of 219, including 67 pros and 152 amateurs, tees off on the initial 18 holes.

Sox Chances Explode As Draft Boards Act

By FRED HOEY

After 26 years of frustration and disappointments and just when things begin to look up, a possible American League pennant in the offing, a wet blanket suddenly descended on the Red Sox' hopes yesterday when the military draft board ordered six players to stand by to await induction in the armed forces.

"Good-By Dolly Grey," good-by pennant chances. Those instructed to be ready for the bugle are Pitcher Tex Hughson, 16-game winner, three catchers, Hal Wagner, Roy Partee and Bill Conroy; the great Bobby Doerr and Lee Culberson the outfielder.

Shoving Off!

Tex Hughson, P., Navy
Hal Wagner, C., Navy
Bobby Doerr, 2 B., Army
Roy Partee, C., Army
Bill Conroy, C., Army
Lee Culberson, O. F., Army
(1944 Pennant—In ash barrel)

Only a few days ago we offered a story to the effect that draft boards would settle the American League pennant. They have insofar as the Red Sox are concerned.

One can't classify all six men as keymen of the Red Sox but they come very close to that distinction. For instance, you can't take Tex Hughson and Bobby Doerr off a club and expect to get far. Then, when three catchers are passing out of the active picture the situation becomes grave from a baseball viewpoint. Culberson has been reserved as a right-handed hitter against southpaw pitchers.

"THAT'S OUT, YOU'RE IN"!

According to all reports the re-examination of these players yesterday was a work of art in military firmness. For example Bobby Doerr, at his examination five weeks ago was told to return yesterday to see if the broken ear drum condition had been cleared up in the interim.

Bobby reported. The examination physician pronounced the ailment as severe as ever with no improvement and advised his rejection. It is alleged that a military officer overruled this decision with the emphatic and final "That's out. You're in."

Roy Partee, the little catcher who has been suffering from a dislodged segment of the vertebrae,

Sox Tackle Solons In Today's Twin Bill

By BILL GRIMES

The Red Sox open their last long home stay of the season this afternoon with a double-header against the Washington Senators at Fenway Park.

The Cronimen are five and a half games behind the pacemaking St. Louis Browns, who will wind up a very successful home stay with the Cleveland Indians this week-end before starting on their third and final eastern invasion.

And, unless the clubs along the Atlantic seaboard can apply enough pressure to cause Mgr. Luke Sewell's charges to crack during the next fortnight, the Browns will have better than an even chance to grab off their first American League pennant.

After this swing around the East, the Browns have only three away from home series to play, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago. And, even more important is the fact that they play 26 of their last 30 games at Sportsman's Park.

After a couple of days at his summer home at Osterville, Mgr. Joe Cronin was back at Fenway Park this morning.

"We couldn't do anything right in the Yankee Stadium," admitted "The Skipper" this morning, "I was pretty low on the way to Chicago but the club snapped right back and played .600 ball in the west by winning nine out of 15 games. But, we blew some decisions which we should have won going away. However, that's baseball and there's nothing anyone can do about it."

JOE RESPECTS SENATORS

Judging from his actions, Joe is very much concerned over this five game series with the Senators. After today's twin bill, the Sox and Nats play a single game tomorrow and then another double-header on Sunday.

To date, the Red Sox have lost seven of the 12 Washington games. And, if the players figure that the Senators will be a push over because they were on the short end of 15 of the 16 games played in the west, the Red Sox can blow this series and then they will be in serious trouble.

Yank Terry and Emmett O'Neill will do the honors for the Red Sox this afternoon. They earned the assignments by virtue of the ball they pitched on the recent trip. Terry has been credited with five wins and charged with seven defeats this season, while O'Neill has seven victories and five setbacks.

Although Rex Cecil, the big right hand pitcher recently purchased from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League will not report until one week from Monday, Oscar Judd will be ready to return to the firing lineup.

Just before the Red Sox went West, Judd had his tonsils removed and he has been working out daily for almost two weeks. He stated last week at Braves Field that his arm felt fine and that he was anxious to get back into action. If he is able to show his old time form, Judd will be an asset to the Croninmen.

Park Loop Readies Up for Big Play-Offs

The Boston Park League plays its final night of competition before going into the playoffs and the only real battle centers on the sixth place fight between West Roxbury A. A. and Hicks Engineering.

Going into the last night West Roxbury leads Hicks by one point and as both teams meet the toughest in the league that one point may be the winning margin for the West Roxburys.

Hicks travels over to Lee Park, South Boston, to meet the Navy Yard and a quick glance at the standings would indicate a soft touch for the Navy. But Hicks, while cellar dwelling most of the season, has been anything but a soft touch for the league leaders, having handed them two of their five defeats.

West Roxbury entertains Casey Club at Billings and it should be an easy one for Caseys. But a playoff berth in sight makes all the difference in the world and the West Roxbury team is going to be awfully tough.

In the only other game on the roster third place Linehan Club moves over to Healy Field, Roslindale, to play the Arsenal.

Royal Welcome Due Cholly Grimms' Cubs

By Associated Press

Cholly Charlie Grimm's banjo strummed a merry tune today as the Chicago Cubs inhaled rarefied first division air after spending the first three and a half months of the season in and out of the National League cellar.

The Bruins headed home via Pittsburgh with a nine-game win streak and a record of 12 victories in 17 eastern starts. Since June 25, when Grimm's crew was mired in last place by 4½ lengths, Chicago took 26 of 38 games to pull past all the eastern entries. For the first time this season, the four western clubs hogged the first division spots.

Chicago's favorite cousin from Milwaukee, who was called up from the league-leading Brewers of the American Ass'n when the Brlins' tailspin became disastrous, received most of the credit for his team's success.

PERSONALITY PAYS

Grimm's personality injected the "win" habit into the Cubs clubhouse and the players have hustled to please their new skipper.

Bill Nicholson stepped up his home run production from its usual sub-par start and clouted Nos. 22 and 23 yesterday as the Cubs humbled Brooklyn twice, 6-2 and 7-1. Nicholson moved past Mel Ott of the New York Giants in the home run Derby and passed the Cards' Ray Sanders, to take the R. B. I. lead with 75.

Tommy Hughes continued his heavy hitting when he shifted to the short field to let the veteran San Hack pick up his old third base job. Don Dallessandro, Phil Cavarretta and Andy Pafko helped boost the Bruins, as did the acquisition of Catcher Dewey Williams from Toronto.

Bob Chipman, who was acquired from Brooklyn for Ed Stanky June 7, topped the club with an 11-4 win record, three against his old Dodger mates. But Fleming won 6 of his last 7 and Hank Wyse 6 of his last 8 starts while Claude Passeau regained some of his old form to hurl 9 complete games in his last 10 outings.

Paul Derringer became a relief hurler in mid June after failing as a starter and made 12 helpful appearances.

CARDS WHIP PIRATES

Chipman needed help from Derringer yesterday to grab a 6-2 nod in the first game over Curt Davis, but Passeau went all the way, scattering 10 hits, to decision Tom Warren in a 7-1 nightcap. Nicholson with 5 for 8 and Cavarretta with 5 for 9 boosted their averages to an even .300.

St. Louis humbled Pittsburgh, 15-2, with Teddy Wilks copping his seventh straight and his 10th win to one loss. Danny Litwhiler batted in six runs with four hits, including a three-run homer.

Chicago's White Sox went into a fifth-place tie with Detroit in the American League by downing Cleveland twice, 3-2 and 5-1. Bill Dietrich nosed out Al Smith in the opener with the help of Johnny Dickshot's triple, and Orval Grove got the nod over Chief Reynolds in the second.

All other big league clubs enjoyed an open date.

Ben Chapman Faces Braves

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ben Chapman, the old Yankee outfielder up from Richmond, Va., for another big league fling as a Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, is due to make his first start tonight against Boston.

"Little did I think when I started to pitch one day in 1942 because my Richmond club had five doubleheaders in six days that I would succeed in making a career of it," the Alabaman drawled.

"I don't know whether I can fool dem up here as I did in the Piedmont League, but one thing you can bet on—old Ben is going to give 'em both barrels."

By the Associated Press

JOHNNY DICKSHOT and GUY CURTRIGHT, White Sox—Dickshot opened ninth inning of first game with triple, setting up winning run of 3-2 score over Cleveland; Curtright's pinch double drove in two men in 3-run seventh-inning for 5-1 Chicago sweep.

TED WILKS, Cards — Stopped Pittsburgh with six hits for seventh straight decision, 15-2, and 10th win of season.

BILL NICHOLSON and PHIL CAVARRETTA, Cubs—Paced Chicago's drive into fourth place by twin wins over Brooklyn, 6-2 and 7-1. Nicholson collected 5 hits in 8 at bat, and Cavaretta 5 for 9 as each boosted average to even .300.

Yacht Clubs Big Swim Help

The South Boston and Columbia Yacht Clubs have offered all their facilities to the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser and the Boston Park Department for the championship swimming meet to be held Sunday afternoon in conjunction with the Mass. Youth Committee.

Rafts of the two clubs, staked 25 yards apart, will make up the course for 18 of the 19 events on the classy swim program.

There is a possibility that the New England A. A. A. U. one-mile championship will be forced off the course, depending on the entry list now being completed. A large field would force Director Tim Cummings to set up a buoy as a marker for the competitors. Early entries in this event listed Ed Nista, Joseph Pratt and John Masso of the Wanskuck Boys' Club; Joe Baclawski, Joe Turone and Matt Lojko of Olneyville and John O'Brien, Fred Sullivan, Henry Murphy of the Boston Boys' Club.

Other New England title events, both junior affairs for girls, will be 100 meters freestyle and 100 meters breastroke.

Finalists in the eliminations series held last month will find over 200 swimmers competing for American-Record-Advertiser prizes. These events list 25 yards freestyle and backstroke for 10-11 and 12-13 year olds; 50 yards freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke for 14-15 year olds and 200-yard freestyle relays for all ages.

A'SAILING WE WILL GO . . . Says Johnny Blodgett, one of Pleon's outstanding skippers, to his crew as they send the trim 110 Class sloop, Victory, through her paces down wind with a billowing parachute in preparation for Marblehead Race Week that starts tomorrow.

Hagg Tris For New Record

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 4 (AP)—Gunder Hagg will attempt to break his own world record of 8:46.4 for the two-mile run tonight in Stockholm's stadium.

As he wound up training yesterday, the Swedish cinder star said: "I can't guarantee a new world record, but I'll do my best."

Hagg missed equalling the two-mile mark by eight-tenths of a second last Wednesday at Gayle because, he said, he failed to hear the final lap gun. Most Swedish sports writers believe he can eclipse the record this time, barring bad weather or accident.

Hagg's fellow Swede, Arne Andersson, is slated to run the 1,000-meter event tonight, their appearances in separate races being the feature of the big Stadium track meet. Although they do not face each other tonight, sports officials hope to arrange direct competition between them—probably at a mile—later in the season.

Andersson, in making a stab at the 1000-meter event, is appearing in a race short of his best distances—the mile or 1500 meters. He expects hot competion from Schoolboy Hans Liljequist, who has run the distance only four-tenths of a second short of the world record of 2:21.9 held by Rudolf Harbig of Germany.

who was deferred on his last examination for that reason, came up for re-examination. X-ray pictures showed the same condition prevalent. The physician so advised the military officer and urged further deferment. "That's out. You're in" was the firm and final decision.

Billy Conroy, the catcher who has been out of the game for three weeks with a broken thumb, reported for examination. Bill still is unable to straighten the thumb. But he has been granted 10 days in which to get that thumb right before induction.

Lee Culberson the outfielder is suffering from a floating knee cartilage. He has been granted a three months' deferment.

TWO MORE FOR HUGHSON

Tex Hughson and Hal Wegner have both enrolled in the Navy and subject to call at any time. It appears now as if big Tex and his battery mate would work about two more games before donning the blues.

So instead of receiving salaries in three or four figures on the 1st and 15th of every month our boys will be drawing down exactly $50 per month for the balance of the war.

Conditions leading up to this drastic action of the military board are interesting. They have been receiving numeous letters from persons criticizing the policy of permitting of what they term 4-Effers to play ball and yet not get in the uniform of the armed forces.

Then, too, one of the most damaging indictments against the players was the persistent barbs from a caustic columnist. This was the final straw, in the minds of the military officers, according to the players, up for yesterday's examination.

So if we can't win the pennant this year we can at least blame it onto a typewriter and one who can toss the English and needles like nobody's business.

What effect is this going to have on the future of the Red Sox? They are done. You can't take six men like that out of a squad and expect to get anywhere. Who will replace Hughson and who will take the place of Bobby Doerr? Who is going to do the catching for the Sox?

It begins to look as though pitching coaches Frank Shellenback and Bill Burwell should begin to warm up. Eddie Collins, baseball's great second baseman of all time, might be persuaded to try that keystone sack again. And Tom Daly, the old catcher, on scout duty, could be brought home to don the pads once again not to appear before the King and Queen of England as he did once, but before his beloved New England fans.

Alas, it's tough on the Red Sox and the fans.

BUT THIS IS WAR.

Loyal Sacramento Fans Plan $2,000,000 Arena

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 4 (AP)—This city's baseball moguls, all 210 of them, are looking for bigger game.

The sports fans who were so determined to keep Pacific Coast League baseball here that they bought the Sacramento Solons' franchise from the St. Louis Cardinals are planning a $2,000,000 sports arena.

Yubi G. Separovich, who rang most of the doorbells in town and collected enough cash at 210 places to keep baseball here, said today the new concrete park would replace the wooden Doubleday Park where the Solons now perform.

This swank edifice, says Separovich, would seat 10,000 for baseball and would include a pavilion with 4000 seats for basketball, boxing and other indoor sports.

And there would be a bowling alley, cocktail lounge, and apartments so that the visiting ball player could camp right at the ball park when he arrived in town.

Separovich said that several men were trying to buy out the 210 small stockholders, but that "every effort would be made to keep control in the hands of the 210 original saviors of the club." Financing plans have not been completed.

Incidentally, baseball interest is bubbling here. After spending last year and the early part of this season in last place, the team's sixth place standing seems positively phenomenal. And the Solons have one advantage. If only the stockholders and their friends turn out, they are assured of a good sized crowd.
